

OAKLANDER SOUGHT BY 3 WOMEN

Frederick Warner, Claimed As "Husband" By Two, Disappears Following Suits and Property Attachments

Former Wife Alleges Actions Are Frame-up and That Missing Man Is in Hiding Until Affairs Are Settled

Sought by at least three women, and creditors, Frederick L. Warner, Oakland business man, has dropped from sight, it was learned to-day.

Two of the women involved claim to have been married to Warner while the third, known as Mrs. Elizabeth Warner, who lived in his home at 491 Cheney avenue, in the Laeshore district, is at her home expressing confidence in the ultimate return of Warner.

The disappearance of the man, who was engaged in the business of installing oil burners in large buildings throughout Oakland, was precipitated a few days ago when Anna Warner of No. 6 Winfield street, San Francisco, filed suit against Warner for $3000. This was followed almost immediately by the filing of a divorce suit against Warner by Mrs. Josephine Warner of San Jose.

ATTACHMENTS FILED ON PROPERTY.

Attorneys Glickman and Glickman, representing Mrs. Anna Warner, filed an attachment on Warner's business on San Pablo avenue near Twenty-second street, and on a bank account in the Oakland Bank of Savings. This brought about a series of attachments on all of Warner's property, including the Cheney avenue home. A collection agency in the Bank of Italy building were given seven claims to collect, attachments being filed in each of these cases.

That the three women, Josephine, Anna and Elizabeth Warner, met for the first time last Sunday morning was the story told today by the latter.

Holding her five-months-old babe in her arms, Elizabeth Warner told how the other two called upon her and demanded that she reveal Warner's whereabouts.

"This entire matter is just a frame-up," declared Mrs. Elizabeth Warner today. "Nothing was done until Mr. Warner and I planned to go south on a ship where we were to be married."

"I heard from Mr. Warner this morning, I know that he is in Oakland and I know that he will return. He only disappeared because one of these women told him that I was preparing to swear to a warrant for his arrest. In fact, they said I was on my way down town at that time to get the warrant."

Later in her talk, Mrs. Warner said that when Warner communicated with her today he informed her that he had given an automobile to a woman in San Jose for safe-keeping and that she had sold the machine and refused to tell him where it is.

AFRAID OF ARREST FOR EMBEZZLEMENT.

"He is afraid that he will be arrested for embezzlement if he lets anyone know where he is until that machine is found," said Mrs. Warner. "Once he finds it he will come back to me. I know."

The civil suit filed by Mrs. Anna Warner against Warner alleges that the plaintiff loaned to the defendant the sum of $3000, which he promised to repay and has failed thus far to do so. The allegations in the complaint are brief and no mention is made of any relationship between the plaintiff and defendant.

However, Mrs. Elizabeth Warner said today that when the two women met at her home last Sunday they introduced herself as Mrs. Anna Warner and the other as Mrs. Josephine Warner.

WIFE DISBELIEVES OTHER WOMEN.

"Both claimed to have been married to Mr. Warner," said Mrs. Elizabeth Warner. "I do not and cannot believe that it is true."

Despatches from San Jose tell of the divorce suit filed there against Warner by Mrs. Josephine Warner. In that complaint, which was filed November 7, with an amended complaint filed November 8, Mrs. Josephine Warner charges that her husband is guilty of misconduct with one S. Warner at 491 Cheney avenue, Oakland, on October 12 of this year and also with one Anne Warner, whose true name she does not know, on Winfield street, San Francisco.

The complaint sets forth that Warner represented himself to be a dentist with an income of $2500. She says she was married to Warner at Tin Juana, Mexico, July 14, 1922, and that the separation took place on October 25. Last she asked $2500 attorney's fees and $1000 a month for her support.

CIVIL SUIT IN SAN JOSE.

Mrs. Josephine Warner followed this with a civil suit in San Jose, filed today, in which she asks the Man Slayer Sought In Jersey Mystery

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Nov. 18.—(By International News Service.)—A new sensation was sprung in the all-mills murder case this afternoon when it was learned that a writ of habeas corpus issued to compel the attendance of Raymond Schneider, a witness before the grand jury, meeting at Somerset, N. J., yesterday, was being sought by the state against "John Doe, Richard Roe and Thomas Roe."

The fact that the writ did not mention a woman's name immediately caused comment. Officials said that, when an unidentified woman is mentioned in a legal case, she is referred to by the name of "Mary Doe."

Aged War Premier of France Lands at New York and Gets Warm Welcome; Mission Told in First Address

Veteran Statesman Declares That Europe Needs Aid of America; Makes Appeal to the People of Country

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—(By the Associated Press.)—Georges Clemenceau, tiger of France, came to America today and was welcomed by thousands at Battery Park.

Proceeding uptown to City Hall where he was officially welcomed by Acting Mayor Hubert, the war premier explained dramatically that his mission was "to do you some service in letting you know how we Europeans judge the American people."

"If you take the wrong side," he said, "then the war amounts to nothing and we may have to go to war again." He asserted "If it turns out right and the right thing is done at the right time, then it will be one of the greatest steps in the civilization of man."

He said the friendly greeting he received encouraged him to believe he would gain access to American minds.

"I must be allowed to speak as a free man to free men who are not afraid of anything," said the tiger. "TIGER WANTS FRANCE SAFE FROM INVASION."

Confetti and ticker tape rained on the tiger as he moved up Broadway. At City Hall he was received by Acting Mayor Murray Hubert, who hailed him as "The most distinguished citizen of the great republic, France."

George W. Wickersham introduced the tiger as one of the greatest citizens in the world.

Clemenceau, responding to the welcome, said: "For fifty years I have been mixed up with the most important political crises in France. I have seen my country invaded twice during my lifetime. I do not want to see a third invasion before my death. We will disperse our army when it can be shown that we are safe from this invasion."

He explained that he came on "no" mission and that his visit was personal. At first, he said, he vowed he would not come to America because he was too old. But when he heard his country craved him to come, he said.

He said that France did not know what was going on in America and America did not know what was going on in France and he wished to make the position of France clear, "as a free man speaking to free men."

By A. L. BRADFORD, United Press Staff Correspondent. NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—In fighting trim, eager for his campaign in this country, Georges Clemenceau, the "Tiger of France," landed on American soil today, with high honors accorded him on every side.

Taken off the liner Paris early this morning on the major's yacht, Macom, Clemenceau stepped on shore about 11 o'clock and was welcomed to New York at the city hall.

When the tiger was met down the bay this morning, Robert W. Bliss, third assistant secretary of state, greeted the old statesman in the name of President Harding and declared that the President would be glad to welcome him in Washington.

"For the honor of the President's welcome, and kind invitation, I am glad to be in America again. I hope to see President Harding in Washington and look forward to the visit with great delight."

REPLYING TO A WELCOME FROM THE American Legion, extended on the Paris, Clemenceau said that the thoughts of the men represented by the American Legion "are the ones that count."

Bentley, with newspaper men and parrying their questions at every turn, the tiger, bundled up in a fur overcoat, refused to reveal anything further as to the purposes of his mission to America.

"I have a mission," he said, as he sat on the deck of the Macom, coming up the bay to New York. But, in reply to questions as to just what his mission is, he declared: "I will tell you all privately Tuesday night at the Metropolitan Opera House." (This is Clemenceau's first speech here.)

"I cannot feel better," said the old man, chuckling, when he was asked how he felt.

"I feel good. I always feel better," he said. "The grizzled old Tiger of France arrived at New York today for the hardest battle of his tempestuous

WOODCOCK SURRENDERS TO JUSTICE

Principal For Kelly Slaying in One of San Francisco's Most Sensational Murder Trials Appears in Court

At His Own Request, Plea On Perjury Charge Growing Out of Old Trial Is Set For Nov. 25; Bail Put Up

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 18.—Edgar Woodcock, principal figure in one of San Francisco's most sensational murder cases and fugitive from justice since September 18, 1914, surrendered to the police today.

Woodcock was wanted on a charge of perjury, the outcome of his testimony given during his trial for the murder of Edward Kelly, circulation man on a local paper, whom he shot and killed for an alleged insult to his wife, Mrs. Alice Woodcock.

The grand jury indictment returned against Woodcock was similar to the one on which Mrs. Woodcock, who is now teaching school in Humboldt county, stood trial and was finally freed.

The death of Kelly, alleged by Mrs. Woodcock to have attempted to seduce her, was a sensational case at the time Mrs. Woodcock told her husband that men frequently had ogled her on her way to the public library. On the night of September 17, she and her husband, who was a partner in the firm of Cooper, left their apartment to go to the movies.

She was to demonstrate to Woodcock how the movies operated. She preceded her husband some distance, and when she stepped in the Civic Center to talk to Kelly, Woodcock is said to have advanced, drawn a revolver and shot him. Kelly died within a few hours. He maintained to the last that he had not flirted with Mrs. Woodcock.

MURDER CHARGE. Woodcock was arrested and charged with murder but acquitted by a jury in the Superior Court. The perjury indictment was then returned by the San Francisco grand jury and Woodcock fled. Mrs. Woodcock stood trial, but when Cooper, the state's principal witness, died in Mexico City, the case was dropped in the Supreme Court.

Today Woodcock, accompanied by his attorneys, William Kehoe and James Brennan, appeared at the Hall of Justice and surrendered himself in Superior Judge Louis Ward's court. His appearance was unexpected by the police, who had not been advised that he had returned from his voluntary exile.

Woodcock sat quietly in court today until his case was reached and then, through his attorneys, asked that November 25 be set as the date for him to plead to the perjury charge. The request was granted and he was released on $10,000 bond, which was furnished.

The former fugitive is tanned and has the appearance of having spent a large part of his time out-of-doors. He did not reveal where he had been, but it was variously reported that he had been in the mountains of Humboldt county, working on a cattle ranch, and in Australia.

REUSES TO GIVE INTERVIEW. "Mr. Woodcock and I, whatever we say for publication," said Attorney Kehoe. "He will not reveal, for certain very good reasons, where he has been or what he has been doing. We do not intend to make his whereabouts known, but I have been in touch with him for some considerable time and have been waiting for an opportunity to see him."

The death of Edward Kelly, Cooper makes it appear as though the case will be dismissed after the district attorney has had an opportunity to consider all the facts.

It is understood that the disposition of the prosecution is to move for a dismissal of the charges against Woodcock, but whether this will be done at the time of his arraignment next Saturday, will have to be determined by District Attorney Brady in the meantime.

Woodcock is a brother-in-law of Ralph W. Bull, prominent Republican political leader of Northern California and wealthy newspaper owner, lumberman and cattle raiser.

VENTURA, Nov. 18 (United Press).—Hazel Middleton's story of the death of Buell Barrows, her sweetheart, who she says was shot to death by some man who stole up behind their car on the deserted beach here Wednesday night, was unchanged after a prolonged examination last night.

Early this morning Sheriff McGlinchy and a number of deputies left here by automobile to question a suspect, it was believed. Several persons who have been questioned have been released.

sum of $2150 on a promissory note executed August 15, of this year. The alleged nothing has been paid on the note. Attorney Louis O'Neil represents Mrs. Josephine Warner in both these actions.

Mrs. Josephine Warner was in Oakland today, according to the manager of a local automobile agency. She called there and gave information concerning an automobile which Warner is said to have purchased.

A few moments previous to her entrance a man called up the agency, it was learned, and stated that he was Warner. He is said to have refused to reveal his whereabouts to the management of the concern.

SUE FOR DIVORCE

HERE IN MAY, 1920.

Warner was sued for divorce by Mrs. Hilda Warner in the local Superior Court and she obtained an interlocutory decree on the ground of cruelty, granted by Judge A. F. St. Sure on May 10, 1920. The decree granted the wife custody of an infant daughter, Madelyn, and $60 a month alimony.

The complaint filed by Mrs. Hilda Warner charged her husband with deserting himself from her with the exception of three nights a week. Warner made excuses that he was employed nights by the government, but she found this was not so. Mrs. Warner declared, and that on the contrary he was running an oil burner business in Oakland.

Mrs. Warner further charged that Warner only doted on small sums to her for household expenses and that sometimes this money was brought to her by a woman he introduced as "Mrs. Smith," but whom she said was really Mrs. Holman.

That her husband spent a great deal of his time with the mysterious

Bolsheviki Seek Orient Control Through Chinese

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—

Bolshevism is rampant in China and seeks control of the East as a weapon against the West, according to reports received today by agencies of the government.

Widespread growth of influence by the Russian Soviet in China was reported, together with the formation there of numerous associations of Chinese students and intellectuals under such names as "The Anti-Christian Society," "The New Tide Society," and "The Principles of Karl Marx Society."

Under the Eastern program of the Bolsheviks, as reported to the government, China and Korea would provide a seedling for communist thought and institutions, later developments to give a Japanese social revolution and finally, after the collapse of Japanese imperialism in the Pacific, a Bolshevik Asia of the pan-Asia Soviets aimed at the obliteration of the "capitalistic civilization" of the Occident.

Mrs. Holman, being in her company on Thanksgiving and Christmas, 1919, was a further indication made by the wife. Later on Warner represented to her that he was not financially able to take care of their child and insisted that she put the baby in an institution at Lepton Springs and have Mrs. Holman appointed guardian. Mrs. Warner declared, believing Warner's representations, she consented to this arrangement but the institution refused to accept the baby.

Mrs. Warner alleged, it was later that she discovered that her husband was not in poor circumstances as he claimed, but that in addition to his oil burner business he possessed $50,000 worth of real estate in Rochester, New York, the wife declared. Their marriage took place in Alameda on August 29, 1918.

Hundreds of telegrams of condolence from men of national prominence are being received by General Wright's family today. General Wright was a Confederate veteran and 76 years of age.

He resigned from the Philippine post in 1906 to accept an appointment by President Roosevelt as ambassador to Japan.

Following a year in Tokyo, during which he was called upon to act on the California protest against the "open door" and other important diplomatic situations, General Wright returned to the United States to accept the post of secretary of war in President Roosevelt's cabinet, resigning in 1909.

career—to win American public opinion for France.

Before dawn, the giant liner Paris was anchored off Quarantine and soon after the 81-year-old war premier of France was on deck to catch the first glimpse of America that he has had for more than half a century. Vessels steamed their salutes and the mayor's yacht, Maceon, with a welcoming committee aboard, steamed out to bring "le Tiger" to the city.

Clemenceau was met on board the Paris by Frank L. Polk, former under-secretary of state under President Wilson, in the name of the welcoming committee; Ambassador Jusserand, Third Assistant Secretary, Colonel E. M. House, who has arranged Clemenceau's tour, and other high officials.

R. E. Condon, a member of the national executive committee of the American Legion, welcomed the Tiger in the name of the Legion, as follows:

"The American Legion greets you. You are the person who exemplifies more than anyone in the world the spirit which inspired us to carry on the war."

Turning, the Tiger gave himself up, grumbling, to the photographers.

Clemenceau landed at Pier A, at the Battery, where famous visitors have first set foot on American soil for scores of years. Crowds lined lower Broadway, applauding as he passed.

After brief welcoming at the city hall, Clemenceau entered an automobile for the ride up town to the residence of Charles Dorn Gibson, where he will stop.

There was a dense crowd jammed on the sidewalks along Park Row to cheer the old statesman as his car swung out of City Hall Park.

Clemenceau brought his hand to his hat when in salute a few times, but on the whole, paid scant attention to the crowd. He was engaged in animated conversation with others in the car.

The Tiger's automobile column passed up Fifth avenue, which was almost deserted. There were no crowds and cheers; bystanders raised their hats or ignored Clemenceau's passing.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson greeted the Frenchman at the doorway of their fashionable East Side residence and Clemenceau, with one last good natured growl at the American, disappeared inside.

The Tiger will base his campaign in America on the following points:

1.—He will try to dispel the belief that France is now the great military power of Europe and he will stress the German danger thus, according to the contention of France, makes necessary that country's army of 800,000 men.

2.—He will maintain that close co-operation between the United States, France and Great Britain is the stepping stone to world peace and will support the American-France-British alliance, drawn up at Versailles and rejected by the American senate, as the best means of bringing about that co-operation.

The big controversial subjects on which Clemenceau will speak constitute an easy index to the difficulty of his task, but the inside facts of the attitude of coolness of the American government towards France on the outstanding world questions of the day have led many observers to fear that the Old Tiger's self-appointed task is well nigh impossible of accomplishment.

Mexico Is Defiant On New Oil Law

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 18.—(By The Associated Press.)—The Chamber of Deputies last night was informed by former Secretary Pani of several communications passing recently between the for-

Charge D'affaires George T. Sumner, in which the American State Department is said to have commented on the proposed petroleum law which is to be considered by the lower house.

It explained that the late Sumner, that President Obregon and the other high Mexican officials had not seen a draft of the proposed law, and were therefore in no position to discuss it, and furthermore that the Mexican government could not submit to outside interference in matters affecting its own legislation.

The statement evoked applause from the deputies, and a vote of thanks was extended to Pani.

against a college graduate," said Thomas A. Edison in an interview today, "is that he objects to work, especially if it is dirty."

Edison expressed his views at his laboratory in Orange, N. J., to the Princetonian.

"The college graduate doesn't want a job with work in it," continued the electrical wizard, "and, when he does get a position, he expects to be appointed foreman at the end of six weeks. Most men working for me never attended college. The college men I have usually show lack of imagination. They scarcely have any suggestions to make in their daily routine which might lead to improvement in their various departments."

"College is a good place for a man who wants to work, but, unfortunately, there are very few of this type nowadays. Yet, if a man wants to succeed, it is not necessary for him to go to college. He will broaden himself without it. We have enough lawyers, doctors and literary men. Also we have many $100,000 jobs with no one capable of filling them. The main quality for success, in my estimation, is ambition, with a will to work."

ANNIE M'SWINEY JOINS SISTER IN HUNGER STRIKE

Threatens to Starve Herself to Death at Gate of Mount Joy Prison.

By DANIEL O'CONNELL, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

DUBLIN, Nov. 18.—Crouching at the gate of Mount Joy prison, a child at her side, Annie MacSwiney of Cork began a hunger strike today, which she declared would continue until her sister, Mary MacSwiney, is released from the jail.

Mary today entered the fourteenth day of her hunger strike. She has refused to eat since she was arrested during a raid by Free State soldiers upon a republican irregular council of war in this city on November 4.

Upon her arrival from Cork, accompanied by the child, Annie MacSwiney went at once to the prison where she requested permission to see her sister. The prison authorities refused.

THREATENS TO STARVE.

"If you don't let me see Mary I will starve myself to death at the prison gates," declared Annie MacSwiney. The wardens expressed regret, but said they were under orders not to allow anyone to see Mary MacSwiney.

Annie then took up her position in front of the jail entrance.

"I will remain here until my sister is released or until I die with her," declared Annie MacSwiney to an International News Service representative.

Mary MacSwiney was reported in a weakened condition and suffering from pains in the back. She has been transferred to a more comfortable ward.

Mary MacSwiney threatened to "kill herself like her brother Terence" unless she was released. Her brother starved himself to death in Brixton jail in London two years ago after being arrested at Cork on account of his Sinn Fein activities.

of repression. The Irish Independent, a supporter of the Free State government, criticized the government's action as "too harsh."

Republican leaders claim that the four youths named were not executed yesterday, but that they were prisoners who had been killed in an attack upon Wellington barracks several days ago. They accused the government of "executions."

Official denial was made this afternoon that there had been any further executions. This showed that Erskine Childers, chief military aide of Valera, who was arrested before a court martial yesterday, was still alive.

ELEVEN EASTBAY RESIDENTS SAY WIFE KILLED QUIST

Slenths Reach Accusation By Variety of Methods in Murder Mystery.

This is an age of murderous wives. On every hand the world reads of wives killing their husbands by every conceivable method.

Who killed Quist?

Eleven Eastbay residents have united in charging the widow, Ada Quist, with the crime. These people have entered their answers and clever clues in the "Who Killed Quist?" contest, for which $50 and 100 T. and D. tickets constitute the prizes.

Mrs. C. A. Morken, of 769 Seventh street, Richmond, says that Mrs. Quist killed Alexander by putting poison in the glass containing the malted milk and that she then planted the acid in the housekeeper's room. Jealousy of Mrs. Morken was the motive, says Mrs. Morken.

C. A. Jackson, of 5455 Locksley avenue, Oakland, says that Mrs. Quist entered Mrs. Anderson to place the poison in the glass. Hilda Bartlett, of 847 Forty-third street, Oakland, says that Mrs. Quist, being mentally unbalanced and under some sinister influence, placed poison in the sugar which which Quist sweetened her father's drink.

Mrs. Silvestra P. Wilson, of 4455 Third-street, Oakland, says that Mrs. Quist placed poison between the pages of the book and that the acid dropped into the glass from which the acid man was drinking. She thinks Mrs. Quist killed her husband through jealousy.

Mrs. Leslie Wilson of Redwood road, Oakland, thinks that Quist, imbalanced by the death of her husband, placed the poison in the glass.

ENEMY IS BLAMED.

Michael Wall of Hayward declares that an enemy of Quist got Mrs. Quist under his influence and forced her to kill her husband. This unnamed enemy furnished Mrs. Quist with the acid necessary to kill and then concealed the remainder of it in the housekeeper's room.

Mrs. J. Gorman, 617 Taylor avenue, Alameda, thinks that, because Mrs. Quist is gentle and because her husband threatened activities in syndicism, she put poison in the glass of malted milk and in the housekeeper's room.

Allan W. Shinn of Niles also charges Mrs. Quist with husband-murder.

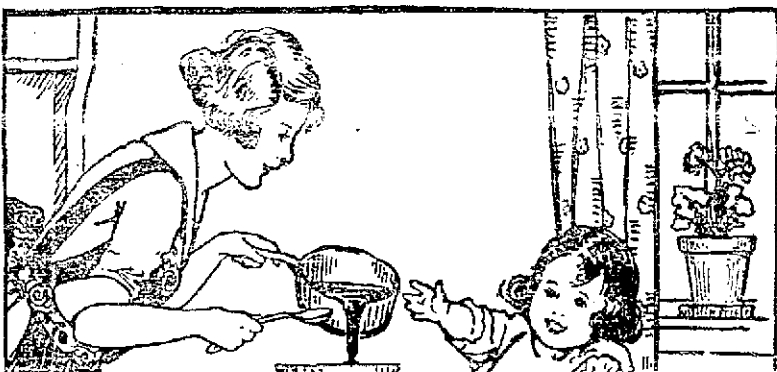

Mrs. J. Fouché has a rather clever explanation of "Who Killed Quist?" She says that Mrs. Quist discovered her husband's affair with Miss Amick through finding letters in the wall safe, that she mixed the drink for Quist, leaving out the sugar cubes, that Quist, on tasting the malted milk discovered the unseasoned condition of it and dropped the cubes of sugar, which contained poison, into the glass and that the mother then covered the rest of the poison in Miss Amick's room. Thus Mrs. Quist caused her own daughter to kill her father unknowingly.

Mrs. J. M. Kinney, Hayward, explains the presence of Speed's parasol in the Quist chamber by stating that one of the Quists found it and took it into his master's study, thinking that Mrs. Quist killed her husband because he would not allow Queen to mingle with other girls and enjoy life.

May Walpert of Niles alleges that Mrs. Quist killed her husband because her mind was affected from sorrow and trouble.

Who killed Quist? Was this simply another case of a wife turning assassin? The best answer was $25, second best, $15, third, $10, and 50 other entrants will receive pairs of tickets to the T. and D. theater. Clues should be sent to QUIST, OAKLAND TRIBUNE, and should not contain more than 100 words.

GIRL, 15, TAKES POISON BECAUSE CAN'T MEET LAD

Refusal of Father to Permit Lass to See Friend Leads to Attempted Suicide.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 18.—Refused permission to make a "date" with her youthful sweetheart, Mary Cartwright, 15-year-old granddaughter of J. A. Cartwright, a salesman of 536 Monterey boulevard, swallowed poison in an attempt to end her life early today. The little girl's suicide attempt came as the culmination of a night of pleasure. She had been to a dance where she had met the young lad in the case, and was so disappointed over her father's refusal to allow her to see him again soon that she determined that life was not worth living.

Cartwright accompanied his daughter to the party, according to information in the hands of the authorities. He watched her as she danced, and later when her youthful sweetheart requested that he be allowed to meet her hurriedly asked "Daddy" if it would be all right. He, it is claimed, turned a deaf ear to her pleas and she went home feeling very badly. Shortly after entering the house the girl went to a medicine chest and swallowed the poison. Cartwright found her immediately, and she was hurried in an ambulance to the Park Emergency hospital. Later she was transferred to the Central Emergency hospital, where it was said she would recover.

The girl's mother is on an eastern tour, and she had been staying with friends in the Park-Presidio district until a few days ago, when she expressed the desire to return to her own home.

Wells, as labor candidate for member of parliament from the University of London, not only was defeated, but polled the smallest number of votes for the constituency. ALKALINE LANDS OF STATE CAN PRODUCE RUBBER

Prof. McMinn Tells Oakland Club of Possibilities of "Rabbit Plant."

The deserts of Southern California and Modoc county can be made to produce rubber by using quantities, Howard E. McMinn, professor at Mills College, told the members of the Oakland Optimists Club at luncheon at the Hotel Oakland yesterday. Professor McMinn declared that a species of "rabbit plant" grows in these regions in great profusion, and that this plant produces 5 per cent rubber. This, he said, may probably be increased to 12 per cent by judicious breeding and crossing.

The speaker said that about 300,000,000 pounds of rubber can be obtained at present from the native brush of the West. The process of manufacture would make it more expensive than the imported rubber, he said, but would constitute a valuable source of supply in an emergency.

Professor McMinn told his audience that there are 23 kinds of rabbit brush in California, and that twelve of these produce rubber. These plants, growing in alkaline soil, produce the best quality of rubber.

Professor McMinn pointed out that there is here a possibility of putting the so-called "bad" or alkaline lands to some use and of developing a new industry. In this regard he insisted what has been achieved in the utilization of the bark of California black oaks for tanning purposes.

Following Professor McMinn's address a music program was rendered by Mrs. Letitia Anna Miller, pianist, assisted by Mrs. Gladys Gilder, noted violinist, and by Maurine Carson, vocalist.

Mrs. Miller and her accompanists are well known both in San Francisco and Oakland and have given successful radio concerts.

Wilkins' Counsel Thinks Well of County Bastille

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 18.—Frank J. Murphy, counsel for Henry Wilkins, who in his career as an attorney has fought hard to save many a client from going to the county jail, arose from a restless sleep today and announced to the world that the accommodations in that bastille are not to be sneezed at.

"I forgot I was in prison. I never slept better in my life. When I closed my eyes I drifted off in the embrace of Morpheus and I was the most surprised individual in the world when I awoke refreshed to look out between the bars."

This was the statement of the lawyer, who, at 1 o'clock this afternoon, completed a 24-hour term for contempt of court proceedings in the Superior court. Wilkins, during the Wilkins trial, Murphy slept so well that he sent out for a big breakfast of ham and eggs and then he was cheered by being informed by prison officials that a huge floral horseshoe, 6 feet tall, had been sent to him. The jail rules forbade the receiving of flowers, but the receiving of flowers was the legend "Goodnight Frank" was left on the "Bridge of Sighs," where Murphy was able to view him on his release. The name of the donor was kept secret.

COUNTY RECOUNT ON WRIGHT ACT TO BE DEMANDED

Constitutionality of Measure Is Assailed By Protective Association.

The constitutionality of the Wright Act will be attacked in court and a recount of the Alameda county vote will be demanded by the newly incorporated United California Protective Association, according to announcement made today by Assemblyman Wm. Tomblower, attorney for the new organization.

"If funds are available the recount will be undertaken," said Tomblower, "but this will be just a part of our functions. We are going to maintain a lobby at the legislature to propound a line for line and button-hole for button-hole with the Anti-Saloon League."

"Furthermore, we will fight Sunday closing laws and all legislation of the blue variety. This association will devote itself to California legislation and nothing else."

Francis B. Henderson, who is looking up authorities for his fight against the Wright Act, and may start proceedings by getting a writ of prohibition against the state of Frank Jordan to prevent him from enforcing the amendment as officially adopted.

SIXTH ANNUAL ROLL CALL OF

"Greatest Mother in World" Extends Instruction in Care of Sick.

Instruction in home care of the sick and first aid to the injured is being offered the women of Alameda county through Oakland Chapter, American Red Cross, claiming the co-operation of the Board of Education which provides the accommodations in the Technical High School. This is one form of public service which the local patriotic group is sponsoring. Several hundred women have received the certificates which are presented upon completion of the work and satisfactory examination. Many of these graduates have been enabled to become self-sufficient through the training which they have obtained in the intensive courses. A corps of these women may be called upon for aid in the event of disaster or epidemic.

To develop its local public health program as well as extend its activities on behalf of the veterans of the World War and their families is the purpose of the Sixth Annual Roll Call which is urging men and women of the community to subscribe a one dollar membership in the personal endeavor of the movement. The pre-holiday campaign, recruiting men and women to support of the local Red Cross, is in full swing. Every mail is being an enthusiastic response from the hundreds who have been reached by letter presenting the report of the work of the past twelve months and petitioning for co-operation in 1923.

Ten million members for the American Red Cross is the goal which has been set by Judge John Barton Payne, national chairman. He explains:

"The Red Cross is a mighty body of red-blooded American men and women banded together to wage incessant battle against disease, disaster and suffering. It is your army, always ready for service, and always at the call of the hour. By answering to the sixth Roll Call you will give your support to the 'Greatest Mother in the World' and once more be pledging your allegiance to the greatest army of mercy in the history of humanity."

Checks may be sent to Oakland Chapter, American Red Cross, Oakland city hall.

DENSE FOG ON BAY DELAYS FERRY TRAFFIC

What is said to have been the densest fog in this section for many years enveloped the entire Bay district today and extended inland for several miles. Ferryboats were delayed, inconveniencing thousands of commuters through altering of the transbay traffic schedules.

The Southern Pacific ferryboats ran on a 10-minute schedule instead of the normal 20-minute schedule. Navigators of craft on the bay reported that in several instances collisions were avoided through signaling and other precautions.

One of the Oakland ferryboats bumped against the slip while docking on the San Francisco side at 7:15 a. m. today, but no damage was done.

BOOST OF DOLLAR PER DAY URGED FOR BRICKLAYS

Scarcity of Men Incites Proposal Before S. F. "Impartial Wage Board."

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 18.—A proposal by a representative of employers to raise the standard wage of bricklayers was the first public meeting of the "Impartial Wage Board," held by the Bricklayers' Union, 1000 Broadway, last night. The board was organized for the purpose of settling wage disputes in the building trades for the coming year.

The proposal was made by Fred Smith, president of the Bricklayers' Union, who said that the union had a scarcity of men and that the employers were not paying enough for the work. He asked the board to raise the wage from $1.50 to $2.00 per day.

The board, which consists of representatives of employers, employees, and the public, will meet again next week to consider the proposal.

NEW WAGE SCALE OFFERED.

George J. Smith, president of the Bricklayers' Union, has offered a new wage scale for the coming year. The scale is based on the cost of living and the scarcity of men. It calls for a wage of $2.00 per day for bricklayers, $1.75 for masons, and $1.50 for laborers.

Smith said that the union had a scarcity of men and that the employers were not paying enough for the work. He asked the board to raise the wage from $1.50 to $2.00 per day.

ARCHBISHOP PRESIDES.

Bishop John J. Cantwell, archbishop of San Francisco, presided at the meeting of the "Impartial Wage Board" last night. He said that the board was organized for the purpose of settling wage disputes in the building trades for the coming year.

The board, which consists of representatives of employers, employees, and the public, will meet again next week to consider the proposal.

Increases in their respective wages were urged by representatives of several of the building trades, who addressed yesterday's meeting. These included bricklayers, masons, and laborers.

Alimony Default Means Jail for Famous Pianist

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 18.—Wards of the city and county, housed at the municipal hall, are awaiting the trial of a famous pianist who has defaulted on alimony payments.

The pianist, whose name is not disclosed, was arrested last night and is being held in the city jail. He is accused of failing to pay alimony to his former wife.

After the program, which was held in the city hall, the pianist was taken to the city jail. He is being held in the city jail until he can post bail.

The pianist, who is a well-known figure in the city, has been married in 1914 and separated last March. He has been living with a woman who is not his wife.

After this statement, about 100 men gathered outside the city hall. They were waiting for the pianist to be released from the city jail.

DEPUTY CLERKS KEEP JOBS, MOVE TO TEST RULING TO TEST RULING

County Workers Elect to Take Chance of Pay Pending Proceeding.

Deputy clerks of the Alameda county government today are delving into the legal ramifications of the recent Supreme Court ruling holding illegal salary increases under the legislative act of 1919, with the idea of instituting mandamus proceedings against County Auditor E. F. Garrison to compel full payment of their salary so the ruling can be tested again in the Supreme Court.

If the mandamus proceedings are instituted it will be in the nature of a friendly act designed to obtain a rehearing of the issues. The county employees believe there is a question because the recent ruling in the case of Forward vs. the County of San Diego, written by Justice Frank O. Landon and concurred in by Justices William W. Richards and Leonard, is directly opposed to previous decisions.

The extra deputies, who, under the recent ruling, are without jobs, are still remaining at work, taking chances that the decision ultimately will be reversed. These deputies were informed of conditions by the heads of the various departments and they elected to take this chance. The extra deputies are: Deputy Daniel Rygel, E. F. Garrison, county auditor, and today that in view of Deoto's ruling on the court decision he would refuse to pay salaries to the extra deputies or the increases granted to others so as to protect himself.

Investigation of their records by the department heads revealed that the number of deputies who will receive no salary for the balance of the year as follows: County clerk, two; district attorney, one; recorder, two; superintendent of county schools, one; tax collector, two; surveyor, one.

U. OF C. STARTS ON NEW STADIUM ON NEW STADIUM

Bids For Construction of Big $1,000,000 Bowl to Be Called in Week.

BERKELEY, Nov. 18.—Following approval of the stadium plans by the City Council yesterday, work was started today by the University of California preliminary to constructing the $1,000,000 concrete athletic bowl in Strawberry Canyon.

Comptroller Robert Sprout, who will have charge of the supervisory work the university, ordered a gang of men to begin work this morning clearing the site. This concrete work for the structure are expected to be called for in about a week, says Sprout, and no time will be lost in pushing the work to a rapid conclusion.

ANSWERING STATEMENTS OF OPPOSITION

The stadium plans at yesterday's council meeting that the big concrete structure could not be finished before the 1923 game, Sprout declared that he had been assured by Professor John Galen Howard, university architect, and by engineers employed by the city, that the work could be completed by the time specified.

FURTHER HEARING SET.

A program of improvements which the regents will carry out in conjunction with the building of the stadium has been submitted to the Berkeley City Council by Comptroller Sprout.

Not satisfied with the promises made, Mayor Louis Bartlett insisted on a further conference with officials of the Associated Students at the university, under whose jurisdiction the stadium will come, and pledges that all expenses of street work brought about by the construction of the stadium bowl would be met from university funds. Such a conference will be held Monday morning in the mayor's office at the City Hall.

Following is Controller Sprout's letter to the council of the Associated Students of the university:

"Major Bartlett and your City Planning consultant, Mr. Carol Aronovitch, have informed me of your wish to learn the attitude of the Regents of the University of California towards certain problems raised by the location of the California Memorial Stadium near Strawberry Canyon. May I say in general that the Regents are very much interested in the stadium, and are anxious to see it completed as soon as possible, and to see it accessible to those who seek admission to it and may, therefore, be counted upon to co-operate in the fullest extent in any plans designed to broaden and improve the approaches to the stadium. I am writing this letter to set forth the specific assurances I have been authorized to give you.

PROMISES ARE MADE.

"(1) If it shall be determined to be advisable by yourselves or your representatives, the university will permit the parking of automobiles on approximately ten acres of the present campus.

"(2) The university will widen the sidewalk on the north side of Bancroft way, from Bancroft street to College avenue, at a cost not to exceed $25,000, the figure named by Mr. Aronovitch.

"(3) In order to facilitate entrance to the campus through Sather gate, the university will agree to the establishment of a seraback lane on the west side of Telegraph avenue from Bancroft way to Alameda way, so far as this affects the property of the university.

"(4) The university will assume the expense of rearranging the parking strip on Pleasant avenue to accommodate pedestrian traffic.

"(5) The university will assume the cost of all extra police officers made necessary by games or other events held under its auspices.

"(6) The university will, within five years, establish a connection between Waring street and the intersection of Piedmont avenue and Bancroft way, via the stadium.

"(7) The cost of all changes which are or may be included in the plans of the regents, such as the widening and altering of streets, the establishment of set-back lines, the changing of curbs, will be met by the university.

"(8) The suggestion was made by your representatives that there be set up a commission consisting of one member selected by the city council, one member selected by the regents, and a third to be chosen by these three to make a study of the traffic problem at the time of the first California-Standard game and to report necessary changes to meet the situation as it then develops, any changes recommended by the committee to be made at the expense of the university.

"The regents regret that they have not the power to delegate to a body outside their own membership the control and disposition of university funds, or the power to alienate or alter the property of the state. They are, however, willing to set up such a commission as an advisory body, to pay its approved and to encourage, insofar as possible, to carry out its recommendations, any costs involved to be met from the net profits of the stadium and not by the city of Berkeley or adjacent property owners.

"I trust that, with these assurances, your honorable body will accede to put the stamp of its approval on this great civic improvement which must be started immediately if it is to be ready for the big game of 1923."

Bay Bridge Plan Up to San Mateo Supervisors

Full power to grant the necessary franchise for the proposed trans-Bay toll bridge, from Little Coyote Point in San Mateo county to Alvarado in San Francisco, lies with the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors, who have already endorsed the project, while the Alameda county board is without authority in the matter, according to a letter received by the local board from an attorney representing the eastern construction companies who are seeking the franchise.

The state law expressly limits the right to grant toll-bridge franchises to the supervisors of the county on the left, or descending, bank of the bay, river, creek, slough, or arm of the sea, the letter sets forth, and it is pointed out, this position in the present instance is occupied by San Mateo county.

LAW DISPOSES OF OPPOSITION.

Proponents of the Little Coyote Point-Alvarado bridge today declared that this law virtually disposes of the opposition to that route which has been raised by proponents of the Redwood City-Newark route, who have been waging a campaign to prevent the Alameda county supervisors from endorsing the Alvarado project.

Even though the local supervisors may, under the law, lack authority in the matter of a trans-Bay bridge, however, the advocates of the Alvarado bridge will continue to seek their endorsement of that route, it was declared today, in order to indicate clearly that it has public opinion behind it.

ROUTE PROPOSED BY WEBB.

The Alvarado route is that proposed by Colonel Frank E. Webb, representing two eastern construction companies, for the building of a six and a half-mile concrete bridge across the bay at a cost of about $5,500,000 by private enterprise, which would be operated as a toll bridge until such time as the state or the counties affected might wish to purchase it.

This route lies five miles north of the Redwood City to Newark route, where it has been proposed to build a public bridge, the expense to be borne by San Mateo and San Francisco counties.

The latter route has received the endorsement of the Alameda County Bridge-Bay Association, comprising representatives of the chambers of commerce of most of the communities located in the southern portion of the county, and by various civic bodies in San Mateo county.

ROUTE IS ENDORSED.

The former, or Alvarado, route, has been endorsed by the Hayward Chamber of Commerce, and by mass meetings at Irwin and Alvarado, on this side of the bay, as well as by the boards of supervisors of San Mateo and San Francisco counties, the city councils of San Mateo and Burlingame, and other local bodies.

For several months past the endorsement of the local board of supervisors has been sought by the advocates of each of the two proposed routes.

That no action of the Alameda county board of supervisors will have legal weight in the granting of the franchise is the substance of the letter received by the board, which was written by William H. Metson, San Francisco attorney, representing Colonel Webb, who is seeking the Alvarado bridge franchise.

Metson bases this contention upon Section 2343 of the Political Code of California, which provides in effect, that all applications for toll bridge franchises shall be made to the board of supervisors of the county lying on "the left, or descending, bank of such bay, river, creek, slough, or arm of the sea" as is to be bridged.

With the Golden Gate accepted as the natural outlet of San Francisco bay, this would give full power in the matter of the bay bridge franchise, it is contended, to the supervisors of San Mateo county.

WILL EXERCISE RIGHT.

That the San Mateo county supervisors will exercise this right in favor of the Little Coyote Point-Alvarado project, is asserted by proponents of the route.

At a point on that body has already gone on record as endorsing it. In his letter Metson states that four of the five San Mateo county supervisors recently announced in open meeting that they were in favor of the Alvarado bridge, and that when the application for the franchise should be made to them, they would vote to grant it.

Every way possible in aiding the construction of the toll bridge, it is expressly to be understood that any franchise that may be granted for such bridge shall contain a provision that the state, counties, or district may purchase the same at a price that will be fair to all concerned.

The resolution is signed by the following seventeen of the eighteen members of the board: Richard J. Welch, J. Emmet Hayden, Angelo Y. Bond, W. S. Bond, Ralph McLaren, Charles J. Powers, E. E. Schmitz, Joseph M. Hill, Edwin G. Bath, John A. McGregor, Frank Robb, Jesse C. Colman, John D. Ilnes, Margaret Mary Morgan, Warren Shannon, C. J. Deasy and John G. Wetmore.

METSON RAISES POINT.

The point of law raised by Metson regarding the right of the San Mateo county supervisors exclusively to decide the question of the bridge franchise has been referred by the local board of supervisors to District Attorney Deane for an opinion as to its interpretation by the courts in any precedent cases that may have arisen.

A copy of Metson's letter, together with a copy of the resolution adopted by the San Francisco supervisors, have been forwarded to the Oakland Chamber of Commerce and the Oakland Merchants' Exchange by James C. Holland, secretary of the board of supervisors, at the direction of that body. In a letter to each organization, Holland said:

"At the direction of the board of supervisors I am forwarding to you the enclosed copy of the communication received by the chairman of the board, together with the resolution passed by the board of supervisors in the city and county of San Francisco. Up to the present time the Alameda county board of supervisors has taken no action in this matter.

"Very truly yours,
"GEORGE E. GROSS,
"County Clerk,
"By JAMES C. HOLLAND,
"Deputy."

Metson, in his letter, requested Chairman W. J. Hamilton of the board of supervisors to get the endorsement of the other members of the board, "so that Colonel Webb may know that the public lack of him in the effort to improve the means of communication between the counties on either side of the bay."

BEFORE SUPERVISORS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 18.—The proposal of eastern construction companies to build a toll bridge across San Francisco bay from San Mateo to Alvarado is under consideration by the San Francisco Board of Supervisors today as a possible alternative to the original plan of that body to aid in the construction of a public trans-Bay bridge at Dumbarton, to connect with the proposed outside highway.

The two projects came into conflict yesterday, during a meeting of the streets, financial and commercial development committee of the supervisors, when plans for the construction of the Dumbarton bridge came up for discussion.

ALVARADO PLAN COMES UP.

The report of the directors of the joint highway district of San Francisco and San Mateo counties, recommending that the bridge, connecting the highway with the commercial side of the bay, be constructed at Dumbarton, was opposed by Supervisor Ralph McLaren, who pointed out that private concerns, represented by Major Frank E. Webb, had offered to build a bridge several miles farther north at their own expense.

McLaren and representatives of several civic bodies declared that if a private bridge should be constructed, the other bridge, to be built at public expense, would be unnecessary.

WINNERS NAMED IN TRIBUNE NEWS PHOTO CONTEST

Picture By Mrs. Estelle Gray of Alameda Made First Choice.

Prizes in The TRIBUNE's great Eastbay photo contest, conducted for a period of 30 days for the purpose of encouraging Eastbay amateurs to seek out and "snap" news photographs, were today awarded by the contest judges as follows:

First prize, $50 cash, given by The TRIBUNE, won by picture entitled, "His Day's Work Done," submitted by Mrs. Estelle Gray, 403 Central Avenue, Alameda.

Second prize, $25 Kodak, given by the Bowman Drug Company, won by "Kids," submitted by Edward H. Terry, 227 Fourteenth Street, Richmond.

Third prize, $25 Junior Kodak, given by the Bowman Drug Company, won by "A Letter to Santa Claus," submitted by H. M. Moore, 4081 Alameda Street, Oakland.

Fourth prize, $15 Junior Kodak, given by the Bowman Drug Company, won by "Sparks from Vulcan's Anvil," submitted by Marjorie Dullman, 4172 Broadway Street, Oakland.

JUDGES IN CONTEST.

These pictures were selected from the prize-winners in the contest by the following judges: J. W. Garthwaite, amateur photographer; C. M. Harris, of the Photographic Section of the Oakland Art Association; Sidney V. Webb, professional photographer of Oakland and Berkeley; and the Photo Editor of The Oakland Tribune.

J. S. Colver, chairman of the Photographic Section of the Oakland Art Association, who was also named as a judge, was unable to serve in the selection of the winners because he was in the east when the contest ended.

The principal basis of selection employed by the judges in deciding upon the winners was the interest in the pictures from the standpoint of the newspaper reader. Artistic arrangement was made a secondary consideration, and clearness of the photograph was held as the third factor of importance.

JUDGES ALL AGREE.

Out of 150 pictures submitted in the contest, that entitled, "His Day's Work Done," which has won first prize, was the only one which every one of the four judges selected as a possible prize-winner.

About 1000 pictures were submitted in the contest. These came from all parts of the Eastbay, with almost every conceivable subject, and were sent in by young and old of both sexes.

Out of this number about 150 were found suitable for newspaper reproduction. The majority of these latter were printed from day to day in the Daily Morning edition of The TRIBUNE during the contest and immediately after its close. The prizes are to be forwarded by The TRIBUNE at once to the winners of the contest, in the form of a check for the first prize, and orders on the Bowman Drug Company for the Kodaks offered as second, third and fourth prizes, respectively.

SPEAKER FINDS GRAVE LESSON IN

OLD DEGREE TALES OLD DUTY TALK

Must Pick One of Four Ways to Live, F. V. Fisher Tells High Twelfth Club.

"Oakland is destined to be the throbbing industrial city of the west, and is therefore vitally concerned with the problem of industrial human relations," Fredrick Vining Fisher, of the Committee of One Hundred on Community Relations, told the members of the High Twelfth Club at luncheon at the Hotel Oakland yesterday. Announcing the subject of his address, "When Friday Came to Town," Fisher said in part:

"When Robinson Crusoe lived alone on his island, he had no taxes to pay or community problems, but when Friday came to town, his troubles began. Today the one overwhelming problem is how folks can live together in the world. It was the issue at Geneva and it is today at Lausanne. It alone explains the menacing surges of the year zone, the elections in America and England.

"There are only four ways folks can live together, Robinson Crusoe can be on top, Friday on top, they can be on top and each living his own free, strong life, work in the partnership of democracy with each other and for each other. The first is Kaiserism, the second Bolshevism, the third is Socialism, and the last is Americanism.

"The battle is on between all of these at this hour and the fate of the world hangs in the balance. Yesterday money and power rises to place, today humanity wins, here and there we still try to be at the best while they work in team work for the common good."

MUSSOLINI WINS CONFIDENCE VOTE

ROME, Nov. 18 (By The Associated Press).—The Italian Chamber of Deputies late Friday, by a strong vote of confidence given the new government of Benito Mussolini, Fascist leader, placed the seal of legality upon a movement which announced as a premonition and revolution three weeks ago. The vote was 268 to 116.

Mussolini conquered the chamber by the same methods he employed in leading his Fascist legions into Rome. As the deputies gathered into the chamber, an eight-hour session of the chamber there were many of them, even those who had voted for the premier, who asked one another "Will he prove to be a Sylla, a Cromwell or a Napoleon?"

Prior to the debate Mussolini had announced that he would allow only eleven deputies—one from each group—to address the chamber. Fifty-three members had desired to be heard. Hardly had the eleventh man concluded when the premier sprang to his feet and began replying to interpellators.

Check Passer Gives Up to Policeman

Alfred Martin surrendered to Policeman Garratt because his conscience bothered him. He stopped the policeman in the city hall, and told him that he was wanted in Sacramento for passing two fictitious checks. He says that the checks were for $100 and $50. The authorities in Sacramento were notified, and Martin is held until the local department finds out whether he is wanted in that city or not.

Dairy Products Prizes Awarded

Page, accompanied by Mrs. Page, arrived in Fresno by automobile, having driven the car himself over Chico from his home, making the trip in two days. Page entered the dairy industry in Marin county in 1881, he said, continuing to grow in that county until 1912, when he moved to Fresno.

WHEELER HALL PLAY ANNOUNCED

BERKELEY, Nov. 17.—For the fifth Wheeler hall production this season, the Greek Theater Players of the university will present George Bernard Shaw's "Heartbreak House" Monday evening in Wheeler auditorium. The play will be given in English and Greek.

At the close of the war Bernard Shaw dropped his comedy mask, and in "Heartbreak House" revealed himself as a deeply feeling, profoundly sage observer of humanity. His characterization and dialogue in this play shows no falling off in wit and keen humor, but underneath there is a strain of tragic disillusionment. The cast for the forthcoming production, which portrays "cultured, leisured Europe before the war," is made up of many of the favorites of past Wheeler hall productions, as well as some newcomers.

Fugitive Russians Ordered From Port

TOKYO, Nov. 18.—(By The Associated Press).—Two Russian ships carrying defeated anti-soviet forces from Kamchatka, which arrived at Yokohama, Yeno, Japan, were ordered by the city officials to leave the port, and have gone to Genoa to join the big colony of refugees there. The Korean government is said to be considering moving the refugees to some point in Korea, where food is more easily obtainable. The whites, or anti-soviet, had been driven from the Japanese evacuated Vladivostok, October 26, and the red forces occupied the capital and other Far Eastern territory.

AFRICA DUBBED TREASURE HOUSE OF WHOLE WORLD

Explorer Just Back Home
Says Big Continent Offers
Many Chances.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Africa as the "Continent of Great Misunderstandings," rather than the Dark Continent, and a land flowing with milk and honey instead of the "Last Frontier" for romanticists attracted for wild thrills, is the theme of a report published today by the Phelps-Stokes fund for an international commission, which has just returned from a ten months' investigation.

The immense and varied physical resources of Africa are virtually unknown to civilization, says Dr. Thomas Jesse Jones, author of the report, because previous searches were made for private or governmental use, and the results were not published.

He found evidence to convince the most skeptical that Africa is the "undeveloped treasure house of the world," with every colony possessing precious metals in commercial quantities and possibilities in agriculture, animal husbandry and water-power that scarcely have been touched.

Four general misconceptions are limiting investment of capital in Africa, industry and agriculture; hampering the efforts of colonial governments, and discouraging the support of missions, Dr. Jones continues. The first concerns natural resources and scenery, the second the health conditions of the continent, the third the improvidence of the people, and the fourth the European and American influences.

RESPOND TO TEACHING.
"The most unfortunate and unfair of all the misunderstandings is that the African people do not give promise of development sufficient to warrant efforts in their behalf," Dr. Jones reports, adding that the contrary is shown "by their response to the missions, governments, and commercial organizations."

"Africans," he goes on, "occupy positions of importance in every colony visited. There are physicians, lawyers and ministers who have completed the requirements of European universities, and while the number is small, it is sufficient to prove the capacity of the people."

"The clerical tasks of government, industry and commerce are very largely entrusted to young African men. The mechanical operations on railroads and in construction are more and more being taken over by African workmen. Every mission gives emphatic testimony to the value of the native teachers and ministers."

NAVY LEARNING.
"Nor are the possibilities of the Africans to be judged only by those who have entered the ranks of civilization, whether in Africa, Europe or America. Their folk-lore, their handicrafts, their native music, their forms of government, their linguistic powers, all are substantial evidences of their capacity to respond to the wise approaches of civilization."

Every influence originated with the white explorer and still persists, but Dr. Jones is convinced that the native has gained more than he lost through the white man's advent.

Injustice, industry, unrest in Africa will always disturb the peace of mankind elsewhere," he concludes. "The only cure for the so-called 'rising tide of color' and the revolt against civilization, hounded abroad with such anxiety by some alarmed states of the present time, is in the development of genuine and sincere co-operation of peoples of all races, based upon an education of the native masses and native leaders in the common essentials of life."

Seagulls Have Wing
Spread of Seven Feet
BURLINGTON, Vt., Nov. 18.—The herring gulls of Lake Champlain left for the north earlier than usual this fall, and observers are wondering whether this means a long winter. The gulls give protection on the Four Brother Islands, where they raise their young, and they are highly valued by the municipality of Burlington because of their lack of interest in the city sewer in the lake.

The species of gull seen here is said never to have been found farther south than Albany, N. Y. The islands were purchased by Edward Hatch, of New York, a half century ago for the purpose of protecting the birds, and the Hatch family ever since then has maintained guards to prevent the stealing of eggs and killing of gulls. The average full grown gull here measures five and seven feet from tip to tip.

Archbishop Fumasoni-Biondi will succeed Archbishop Bonzano, for ten years apostolic delegate to the United States. Archbishop Fumasoni-Biondi will sail from New York tomorrow on his way to Rome to receive the red hat of a cardinal.

Railroad Detective
Wounded By Police
CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 18.—Daniel H. Clark, 47, chief of detectives of the Nickel Plate railroad, was shot and probably fatally wounded by a squad of police who entered his home in response to a burglar alarm last night. Before submitting to a blood transfusion operation Clark and the officers were indicted on a charge of involuntary manslaughter. One child was killed and more than 60 school children were injured when the floor caved in.

FARO CON GAME ENDS IN ARREST OF BOSTON MAN

BOSTON, Nov. 18.—For a man who has been playing the faro game for years, M. Tearley of Detroit and Philadelphia, and Dr. Arthur E. Lawrence, of this city, today endeavored to show Police Inspector Hagarty how to beat the faro board. They were arrested in Dr. Lawrence's back office on warrants charging conspiracy to defraud on three counts involving $80,000.

The complainants, other than the inspector, were Morris Freedman and Walter Stears, both of Boston, who said they had paid the stipulated $20,000 for enlightenment in the mysteries of faro.

GLASS EYE FAILS IN BOSS' JOB

BERLIN, Nov. 18.—East African superstition and ingenuity are amusingly illustrated in an incident related by the German colonel, Dr. E. Nigmann, in his memoirs of the days when he was in charge of colonial administration in that part of the world.

One of his most reliable aides, he says, was a native lieutenant-colonel who had lost an eye during one of the local expeditions, and wore a glass one in its place. This officer was assigned to superintend the erection of a postoffice in a rural district. The inhabitants had long been delinquent in tax payments and consequently each male adult was required to meet his civic obligations by putting in a week's labor on the new government building.

ers were industriously at work under his vigilant watch, the lieutenant-colonel was temporarily called away. On leaving the building he took out the glass eye, placed it on one of the walls and announced to the workers: "Look here, my men, I must go now, but I am leaving my eye to keep tab on you and to see that you keep working while I am away." It was with considerable self-satisfaction that he returned to find his gang hard at work.

Next day the lieutenant-colonel had another summons to leave his post. Again he placed the glass eye

Kansas to Drop Editor White's Case

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 18.—S. C. D. Griffith, assistant attorney general of Kansas, has announced that he has sent a letter to Robert Boynton, county attorney at Emporia, Kan., suggesting that the case of the state against William Allen White, charged with violating the Kansas industrial court law by posting a placard expressing 40 per cent sympathy for the striking railroad shopmen during the recent strike, be dismissed.

in charge and left. Returning, he noticed from afar that building operations were at a standstill. All of his dusky help snoring peacefully. Upon looking for his "foreman" he found it carefully covered with an old hat.

BURGLAR PASTOR DRAWS 1-TO-40 YEARS IN PRISON

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 18.—Captured here last Sunday night in the act of blowing a safe in a local shoe store, was sentenced to from one to forty years following his plea of guilty in district court here this afternoon.

His two companions, M. Ray Bowman and J. C. Buselle, have not been tried. Roper confessed to the authorities that he took part in the robbery of the Canabris, Ia., bank several weeks ago.

Study of Esperanto Compelled in Vienna

VIENNA, Nov. 18.—The Esperanto language has been made a compulsory study in the Technical Commercial Academy, and four schools have been established in the police department for the instruction of members. In all there are now 73 Esperanto schools in this city.

Grass Valley Miner Drops From Sight

GRASS VALLEY, Nov. 18.—Albert Jeffery, a miner, was reported missing yesterday. He was last seen Thursday, at noon, he was preparing to report for duty at the Empire mine here. His wife and two children reside here.

ANGERED BOSTON MAYOR BARS OUT DANCER DUNCAN

BOSTON, Nov. 18.—So long as the mayor of Boston is in office, Isadora Duncan will never give a public performance in this city, the mayor announced last night in vetoing a permit for a return engagement for the dancer. Miss Duncan appeared here last month and her efforts were frowned upon by critics.

Activities of Women's Club

Lighter Phases Of Life Prove Popular

By EDNA B. KINARD.

All work and no play makes every poor leader in education as every member in Oakland School Women's Club well knows. Therefore the organization of sections devoted entirely to the lighter phases of life and their sudden leap into wide popularity among the 800 or so members. The innovation sponsored by Miss Edna A. White, president, was introduced this season. Section work will be developed as the demand for new groups is evident.

Miss Jones, bridge, dancing, swimming, applied psychology and choral groups are at present interesting the school women in their social life. Golf and a dramatic section will be organized later in the year.

Miss Margaret Mathews is leader among the women who are becoming masters of the Chinese game which is offering so great a fascination to its followers. They meet each Tuesday evening in the club rooms in the Bacon building for an hour or so to play.

The bridge enthusiasts meet on Thursday evenings. Miss Edna A. White, chairman, Wilson's dancing academy has been chosen for the Thursday meetings of the dancing section, the two hours of instruction beginning at 4 p. m.

Miss Kathleen Sunday is leader. The swimming classes are divided between the Y. W. C. A. and Piedmont baths pools. Miss Irene Bordwell is leader, with Miss Katherine Kelly, instructor. The first beginners class convenes at the "Y" on Wednesday at 6 p. m.

The second class has been chosen to meet at the Piedmont baths on the same hour Fridays.

Miss Isabel Morgan is chairman of the choral group which is recruiting a large number of musicians in its membership.

The study of applied psychology which has been instituted under the auspices of the School Women's Club will be limited to small groups. On Wednesday evenings the club rooms have been set apart for these students. Miss Catherine Comstock is leader.

With the November number which was distributed this week the School Women's Club opens the fifth year of the official Bulletin, a snappy 24-page volume devoted to educational matters and club activities. The staff includes: Miss Marguerite Vinegar, Miss Louise Lishon, editors in chief; Miss Gertrude Freitag, Miss Nabel Esther Cruse, associate editors; Miss Josephine Schell, kindergarten representative; Miss Catherine Comstock, advertising manager.

H. A. Snow will be the speaker before Park Boulevard Club on Monday, relating those thrilling experiences of his journeys through the jungles of South Africa and showing the valuable film which he and his son shot of animals and wild life in its natural habitat. Mrs. Carl Williams will be chairman of the day. A short business session will precede the 2:30 p. m. program. The musical numbers will be offered by Mrs. Barbara Barnett, assisted at the piano by T. W. Eckert.

A reception to new members will conclude the afternoon. Mrs. H. W. Pershing will be tea hostess, assisted by a dozen club women. Mrs. Albert E. Carter, president, who has returned from an extended visit in the San Joaquin valley, will open the parliament law session on Monday. Beginning at 1:30 p. m. a half hour will be devoted to a practice drill.

The public, parents, teachers and students will be represented on that body which will judge the couple whose waltzing most nearly reaches to Fremont High School standards at the school dance on

Bride-to-Be Is Honor Guest At Tea At Piedmont

MISS DELPHINA HILL, who entertained at tea this afternoon at her home in Piedmont for a bride-elect.

Miss Leona Reichardt to Wed Harold Chesbrough During Coming Year.

Fifty invitations were extended for the tea at which Miss Delphina Hill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence V. Hill of Piedmont, presided today in honor of Miss Leona Reichardt, fiancée of Harold Chesbrough. Miss Reichardt makes her home in Burlingame. The wedding is planned for next year.

Later this evening the hostess will give a dinner for the receiving party and an equal complement of young men.

Miss Hill is a student at the A. to Zed school in Berkeley.

CURTAIN

By WOOD SOANES

WHEN an actor has been actively engaged in dramatic stock for some twenty-three years and has essayed about 1300 different roles, one becomes quite excited over the prospect of appearing in a play which has had the greatest appeal for him and which one made the most lasting impression.

So it was that Henry Shumer, character comedian at the Edison, engaged in contemplation of his forthcoming stellar role in "Welcome, Stranger," was forced to arise, take a curtain call, and give answer to this important question: "Without even a rehearsal to meditate the role, how could I play it?"

"Uncle Nat" in "Shore Acres" and "Bill Sikes" in "Oliver Twist." "Perhaps I'm old-fashioned," elaborated Shumer, "but I get more enjoyment out of a homely role than I do in any other part and I think that the audience likes that type better, too. I delight in playing such parts as 'Uncle Nat,' 'Josh Whitcomb' in 'The Old Homestead' and the 'Abe Potash' roles.

"But I feel that 'Bill Sikes' impressed me more than anything in the acting line. My opportunity came during the Nance O'Neill engagement at the Teaberry. I was invited to take a rest and selected me to play his role of Sikes. He drilled me in the part and I tried to make it as mean as I could.

It was Rankin's policy to have a dress rehearsal on Friday and to sit out in front. I made my entrance and acted as mean as mortal man could act. Finally I finished with Miss O'Neill. I was trembling with apprehension. I feared I had over-done it. Then over the foot lights came the big words of Rankin:

"Harry! Please don't be so polite."

Yes, sir, that was a part and Rankin—he was an actor.

100 Pct. Son Is Theme of Dr. Silsley

Obligations, Trend in Modern Life to Be Discussed By Pastor.

"What is a One Hundred Percent Son?" is the subject of Dr. Frank M. Silsley, the pastor, at the evening service of the First Presbyterian church tomorrow. This continues the series of sermons on "Home Life in the Day of the Century." Is he given too much freedom or not enough? Is it a small thing that a son forgets his obligations to his father and mother? What do you think of that modern son who permitted his mother to die in the County Home? What do you think of that other son who knew that his mother was suffering yet refused to help her? Recognition will be given to Fathers and Sons Week in this sermon, but it is to be a sermon not simply for boys in their teens, but for young men and more matured men.

"LEARN TO LIVE"
The religious ideal of the past was expressed by the Saint spending many hours every day in prayer. The ideal of modern religion is a Brand Whitlock who governed a city with justice and efficiency, a Jacob A. Riis who worked to eliminate the slums in New York, and a John Ruskin who spent more than $1,000,000 to universalize the beautiful in England. Modern man craves flesh-and-blood reality, and a religion embodied in the lives of heroic men.

Church Unity Plea Is Urged

Church night at the First Christian church of Oakland, Wednesday evening, was enjoyed by more than 125 members and friends, who heard the address of Dr. Harvey H. Guy of Berkeley.

He called attention to the times in the world's history when nation-wide appeals to Christianity have been met with a deaf ear because the church was too busy debating doctrine to hear the call.

"Another time is upon us now when not only nations but a sick world calls with a trumpet voice (perhaps too loud to be heard by the human ear), that is a challenge to organized Christianity," he stated.

It will be a sad day indeed if this challenge goes by unheeded. There is not today on the face of the earth an integral people who are not holding out imploring hands to the Christian forces of the world to be saved from utter ruin. There is only one way to meet the appeal—that is the get-together program among the churches. A forgetting of infinitesimal differences and the presentation of a united front and attack upon the forces of evil."

The special conference following was that of the Senior and Intermediate Christian Endeavor societies.

As was observed as a "set-together" social and devotional hour for the church.

At the morning church service tomorrow Rev. Lutz will speak on the subject, "The Influence of Religion Upon Life." An evangelistic song service will be held in the evening at 7:30 under the direction of Gilbert Hoff. This will be followed by an address by Rev. Lutz on "The Crown of Thorns."

Pastor at Olivet Will Preach on Divine Magnet

"The Divine Magnet" is to be the subject of a sermon to be preached in the Olivet Congregational church tomorrow morning by Rev. Harold Govette, the pastor.
In this sermon Rev. Govette says he will speak of the magnetic influences in the physical universe, of the magnetic influence of man and the magnetic influence of God. He says that he will also speak of the magnetic power of sin and of the magnetic power of righteousness.

DEFENSE AGAINST FORWARD PASS HAS AT LAST DEVELOPED

Iowa-Yale Game Showed Superior Work of Big Ten Team in Protecting Territory Against Passes

By WALTER CAMP
Special Correspondent of THE TRIBUNE.
(Copyright, 1922, by THE TRIBUNE.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Already very important developments have been indicated in the season's football play. It is somewhat difficult to pick out the one of the greatest importance, but after close study and reports from various sections, it is manifest that the most vital is the development of the defense to the forward pass.

This was excellently demonstrated in the Iowa-Yale game at New Haven in mid-October. Howard Jones' men showed a deployment of defensive backs which was so effective that in a half dozen attempts by Yale, not one of the passes was anywhere near completed and three times the passer was practically compelled to hold the ball because there was no place he could throw it without imminent danger of direct interception by an Iowa back who stood looking at him and practically waiting for the ball.

There are three lines upon which this defense is based by the modern team. First, and a cardinal point, the hurrying of the man who is going to make the pass. Teams have always known this, but it has not been carried out thoroughly before. The writer makes this statement advisedly, because on all sides one hears coaches complaining when the opponents complete a forward pass, that they did not hurry the passer. It is not the time he wanted.

SEATTLE, Nov. 15.—Walter Hagen, British open champion, and his trick shot partner, Joe Kirkwood, Australian, are to play an 18-hole best-ball exhibition match with Clark Squires, amateur, and Al Robertson, state open champion, both of Seattle, on the municipal golf links here tomorrow afternoon. They were to make their first appearance in the Pacific Northwest this morning at Tacoma, but were unable to get away.

Ball League Will Get Start Tomorrow

Grand Knight John Flynn announces the opening tomorrow of the season for the Bay Cities Knights of Columbus Baseball League. For more than a month the various councils have planned for the league. It was first planned to have Sacramento and Stockton represented, but after long consideration, it was decided to start with San Francisco, Oakland, Alameda, San Francisco 61st, and California 580, also of San Francisco. Vallejo is very anxious to be in the league, but it is likely that the navy town will not be represented until next summer when an all-club league will be formed. Steve Graham, brother of Charlie Graham of the San Francisco Seals, is a member of Oakland Council and president of the league.

Midget Smith Has Best of Montreal

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 18.—Midget Smith of New York won a shade over Young Montreal, in 10 rounds here last night, newspapermen decided. Smith was fouled in the fourth round and the bout was halted five minutes to allow him to recover.

Ellensburg Normal Beats Cheney 13-10

CHENEY, Wash., Nov. 18.—Ellensburg Normal won the normal school football championship of the state of Washington here yesterday afternoon, defeating Cheney Normal 13 to 10.

Junior Teams Playing High Class Games

Five Teams in Class B League Have Yet to Suffer First Beating.

Five clubs in the Class B division of the Oakland Tribune Mid-Winter League have yet to taste defeat. Since the season opened five weeks ago the fans have been puzzled picking the best games. Last week the bill of fare was well crowded with extra features. The program arranged for tomorrow appears every bit as good. Several of the dark horses of the league are getting ready to show something, and the leading clubs cannot take things too easy.

The Rainbow Shaving Parlor club, which leads the league in the California division, are all set for another battle when they stack up against the Florio-Bigoni No. 2 club at Alhambra Field. The Hardware Lads are coming to the front, and with a few breaks will be one of the contenders for the bunting. They displayed their wares last week by beating the Rishon Barbers. Rishon Barbers nine suffered their first beating, but Manager Frank Lewis will have his boys out again tomorrow for another battle. The Rishon Barbers hook up with the St. Joseph's nine at the foot of High Street, near the Rishon Barbers. During the absence of the Sodality boys, who play most of their games at the Fruitvale Depot grounds, Oakland Camp W. O. W. and the Kessler Army Goods store teams will battle. Both teams have yet to break into the win column.

Red Sox and Detroit Make Player Trade

BOSTON, Nov. 18.—The trade between the Detroit and Boston clubs, by which the Red Sox give Derrill Pratt, second baseman and Rip Collins, pitcher, for Elmer, pitcher; Holling, pitcher, and Herman, first baseman, was confirmed by President H. H. Frazee today.

The question who is to manage the Red Sox next season is still in doubt. Although Hugh Duffy has signed a contract for another year, President Frazee is negotiating with both Bill Carrigan, manager of world champion Red Sox team five years ago, and Frank Chance, formerly manager of Chicago and New York clubs.

Boy Scouts Planning A Tennis Tournament

SANTA CRUZ, Nov. 18.—On Saturday afternoon, December 2, will be held the tennis tournament between Piedmont-Oakland Scouts and the local Scouts. In the evening the local Scouts and the Piedmont Scouts will cooperate in giving a Scout entertainment at the high school auditorium. The features will be "Scouting in Tabernacle," a play about the life of the first Eagle leader to one of our Scouts. A short offering will be taken to defray expenses.

Jimmy Sacco Wins From Otto Wallace

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 18.—Jimmy Sacco, Boston lightweight, defeated Otto Wallace of Denver in the main event at the Hollywood American Legion stadium last night. In the semi-finals Sacco defeated Willie Williams, middleweight of the U. S. S. Mission, won from Sabor Harry Smith of the U. S. S. California. The feature preliminary resulted in a victory for Kid Mohn, a Filipino featherweight, over Pete Herman of Los Angeles.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 18, 1922

A WEEK'S RECORD.

Despite the approach of the winter season and the time when construction activity normally slackens, Oakland has once more shattered all of its building records. The week ending November 15 was a million dollar week and the highest in the history of the city. The total represented by the building permits, $1,023,619, is one which a few years ago would have made a notable mark for a full month.

In the building permits issued is the story of Oakland's expansion. It is a story written into the record and one which cannot be disputed. In its narration there is no chance for enthusiasm to give color. It is because this record which is being made by the Eastbay is one which may be checked and verified, it is attracting attention the country over and this city is being pointed to today as the one of most promising destiny.

With a month and a half to go Oakland is $5,503,844 ahead of all of 1921 in building permits. At the present rate 200 permits are being added each week and there is no sign of a lessening.

Close upon the filing of these permits, it is to be noted, come the letting of contracts and the start of construction. New homes are being erected in all parts of town and ground is being broken for hundreds more. The building program will go through the winter and assure employment for a large number of men. It can only mean the city is growing at a more rapid rate than ever, that the 250,000 mark is reached and that the next census will see Oakland at the 300,000 mark or over. And the growth that is here in Oakland is apparent in Berkeley, Alameda and the other cities of the Eastbay.

SAFE FLYING.

"Flying, properly controlled and regulated, is one of the safest methods of transportation now in public operation."

This statement, coming from the National Aeronautic Association of the United States, may be regarded with some doubt as emanating from a prejudiced party and yet there are some convincing statistics to back it up.

Colonel Paul Henderson, Assistant Postmaster General, in charge of the Air Mail, says that in the past 15 months, flying every day, in all kinds of weather, with twenty planes in the air, the transcontinental Air Mail Service has carried out 95 per cent of all scheduled flights without a single fatality or single serious mishap. This means that the mail flyers have carried out 95 per cent of all scheduled flights without a single fatality or single serious mishap. This means that the mail flyers have carried out 95 per cent of all scheduled flights without a single fatality or single serious mishap.

In addition, it is pointed out in the report that 1921 one hundred and twenty-five organized companies, with rules and regulations based on their own experience, flew between 500 and 600 aircraft a combined distance of 2,907,245 miles, in 130,736 flights, carrying 199,497 passengers and 123,500 pounds of freight without a single fatality in flight. To itinerant flyers, "gypsy" lines, and "stunt" operators there were a number of accidents and 49 deaths. The conclusion to be reached is that flying must be regulated. The Aeronautic Association is asking that Congress make possible regulatory laws for enforcing measures which will increase the safety of air navigation, and is also asking the support of public opinion in a drive for "Safety First" in the use of aircraft.

There is some warrant for concluding that election results had a different effect from that predicted by a considerable contingent. It was thought there would be such an overwhelming expression against prohibition that action on the back track could not be a real possibility. What happened in California, which state was relied on to lead the wet van, is of record; and now the news comes of a formidable movement at Reading, Pennsylvania, for the removal from a city park of a statue which had been placed there in memory of a brewer, so far as known the only municipal monument to a brewer in the United States. The dregs evidently feel encouraged.

OPPORTUNITIES IN CHINA.

Despite the troubles Chinese Government is having with bandit forces progress is being made over there in developing a constitution and improving the educational system.

Julian Arnold, commercial attache to the United States Department of Commerce in China, told members of the Oakland Rotary Club recently of the new China which is growing out of the old and of the opportunities which will come for commercial and industrial relations. In these opportunities, he said, this city as a great port on the Pacific will have large share.

A suggestion of Mr. Arnold which is particularly timely and may be applied for what it is worth to the whole Pacific Coast, is that Chinese geography and history be taught in the schools. The day is coming, and not so far distant but the present generation of school children will see its benefits, when commerce with China, Japan and the Orient will be one of the greatest bulwarks of American export. A day is coming also when the Pacific will ocean of greatest world trade, when the center of commerce will shift to this coast from the Atlantic.

Mr. Arnold spoke for American aid in helping China to become modern and help that such aid would be reflected in no uncertain returns. Aside from taking away with him a new and most favorable impression of Oakland's importance as a port, the commercial attache was given a demonstration of Oakland enterprise when he was informed that the long-sought one hundred per cent meeting of the Rotary Club was realized upon the occasion of his visit. Every one of the two hundred and more members was present. For a long time the local club has stood at the head of those in the country in the matter of attendance, but this is the first time the perfect meeting has been held. The distinguished visitor gave Oakland a number of things to think about and, no doubt, took away with him a high opinion of the city and the club which entertained him.

TOWNER-STERLING BILL.

One of the lights which is certain to occupy the attention of the next Congress is that to be waged by educational associations and organizations all over the country looking to the immediate passage of the Towner-Sterling bill. The main provision of the measure is one for a Department of Education with a Secretary in the President's Cabinet, and it is upon this provision the argument will center.

Indicative of the strength of the proponents of the bill is the fact the National Educational Association, American Council on Education, American Federation of Labor, American Federation of Teachers, General Federation of Women's Clubs, National Congress of Mothers and Parent Teachers Associations, Association of Collegiate Alumni, American Library Association, and many other bodies of large membership and influence are enrolled in support.

Arguments for the bill are those for better educational facilities. "Education," say the sponsors, "should be given the recognition which its importance requires." To back this is the statement illiteracy is recognized as a national peril, ignorance of our language and institutions is a source of danger, and every means should be taken to assure the country an intelligent and enlightened citizenship. From what has already been divulged it is probable the opposition will be based on a plea that the habit of enlarging the cabinet must stop and that the states should have the regulation of their own educational systems. It is expected, however, that the Towner-Sterling bill will be heard before the winter is over.

It is considered certain that immigration will be one of the main issues before the next Congress. The discussion of the subject immigration from any country to three per cent of the natives of that country who were here in 1910—has not worked with entire satisfaction, and anyhow is a temporary measure. There is a tremendous desire on the part of peoples in war-torn countries to come here, where life and liberty are assured and a living easily made, and if some regulation is not made the country would at once be inundated, and with classes not always the most desirable. This is so thoroughly realized that Congressional action is reasonably certain.

Lloyd George steered the British nation with skill and success through the greatest war and the most perilous times it has ever experienced, to fall at last over minor obstacles that would not seem to measure anywhere near the magnitude of those that he triumphed over. At this distance we are not likely to get a clear conception of the situation, but it would be exemplified by a man traveling around the world, to fall through all the vicissitudes of the journey, to fall over a chair on arriving home and meeting his fate. It is more or less the way of things.

"The man who put the question was Thomas Brown, who until this morning, had been hidden in the chandelier. He sprang lightly to the table and with the grace of a panther slid to the floor. 'What could be gained by so asking a procedure?'"

The great detective blew angrily and spluttered into his calabash. "This untimely interruption," he snarled, "throws the whole case in a new light. I must say, young fellow, I do not appreciate your part in the affair. You must give me time to think."

For two hours the company gave itself to thought. Outside the impatient world demanded solution to the mystery. The detective drew a coin. "We will flip," he suggested, "to see whether we arrest the butler or the cook. It is the famous system of Dr. Gammon and spinach and has never been known to fail."

Everyone, except the beautiful woman, was impressed. She put her hand to her face, uttered a startled exclamation and crossed the room. The sergeant gripped the table and the detective drew his fountain pen.

In front of the mirror the beautiful woman was powdering her nose.

With a supreme effort she turned and faced the solemn company.

NOTES and COMMENT

Capper's Weekly: "At the coming session of Congress it is not unlikely the President will ask for the repeal of the present Transportation Act and recommend another railroad program. He is also expected to urge the early passage of the Ship Subsidy bill, also a bill to tax securities now tax-free. Other legislation to be laid before Congress by the President will include a measure to modify the Volstead Act, to meet international objections growing out of the recent 'laughing' ruling. The President is not in favor of modifying the Volstead Act, it is said, but feels it should be more clearly interpreted with regard to foreign shipping and the foreign possessions of the United States."

Oregon propaganda from the Medford Mail-Tribune: "Oregon, according to a full page advertisement in the Portland Oregonian of Monday, November 13, is going to launch a campaign for new settlers. They invariably congregate in sections that do not think the noblest function of the legislature is to annoy with fool laws. Oregon now has eight people to the square mile. Unless the proposed law works exceptionally well there will not be that many when the next census is taken."

Washington Post on soulfulness: "The administration has given us a wholly materialistic and soulless America," says former Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo in explanation of Tuesday's election results. There we have it! It is surprising that so simple an explanation has not occurred to the thousands of analysts throughout the country who have been puzzling over the outcome. The inference from Mr. McAdoo's statement is that the Democratic party would have given us an immaterialistic and a soulful, spirituelle America—an America tender-eyed, coy and elusive, and living in the land upper realms."

LIFE'S STORY.

To write life's story well one must be wise—
Wise in the beauty of courageous deeds.
The strong, clean virtues and the simple creeds.
And though in vice some truth of nature lies
And creatures go those things which gods despise,
Who tints with splendor what is shameful leads
To baser standards him who blindly reads.
Who loves the mire shall never higher rise.

To live life's story well needs wisdom too—
Wisdom to pass by grossness undefiled,
To see the worst of nature and come through
Fit to be trusted by a little child.
To know that mud exists and must be seen,
But still to fill your life with what is clean.

DISARMS HUNTER.

Miss Preston, teacher of the Milner school, was called upon to face a situation Wednesday afternoon which certainly proved her courage. She discovered John Lopez, a 14-year-old Spanish boy who resides at Bucktown with his parents, hunting on the school premises, and ordered him off the grounds. He refused to go, and she put him off.

A short time after, while the school was in session, he discharged his gun from the porch of the building, evidently to annoy the teacher. Miss Preston went out, took the gun away from him and threw it into the road, and during the scuffle was struck by the school, and a day or two later another shot was fired, this time at the door, the charges striking the ton again went out, grappled with the boy, and took the gun from him, but this time carried it into the school room with her.

The matter was reported to Constable Stadfield Thursday morning, and in the afternoon he went to the boy's home and placed him under arrest. The matter will come up in the juvenile court as soon as a date can be set.—Vacaville Reporter.

About YOUR HEALTH

Why Some Mothers Must Wean Their Babies Early

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.,
Commissioner of Health,
New York City.

There is no difference of opinion in all the world as to the wisdom of breast feeding. Fortunate, indeed, is the baby who is so blessed. It gives a child the best sort of a start toward health, growth and vigor.

Cow's milk properly modified is an acceptable substitute for mother's milk, but, like all substitutes, it is open to certain objections. Chief of these is the difficulty of getting fresh and pure milk.

Nothing is more desirable for the child, and certainly nothing can be more gratifying to the maternal instinct than to be given the inestimable privilege of nursing her baby. To spend her life for her child is the inborn desire of every mother. It is a sad experience when for any reason the child cannot be nursed. Yet, there are times when breast-feeding is out of the question. Certain conditions make it imperative to discontinue the breast. Needless to say, this should not be recommended unless there are well-defined and positive reasons for advising it.

So important is this subject that volumes have been written on the indications for discontinuing breast feeding. The medical profession has formed definite conclusions regarding it.

In the first place, let us consider the mother herself.

Unfortunately, not every mother is well and strong and free from the taint of disease and of physical disabilities which might be transmitted to her child. She may appear perfectly well up to the birth of the baby, and then suddenly show some ailment which could have disastrous effect upon the infant.

Nursing mothers seem endowed with special powers of resistance against acute disease. In spite of this, however, pneumonia or typhoid fever may so reduce her as to make it impossible to nurse the baby, even if it were safe to endanger the child by continuing the breast.

Bright's disease, tuberculosis, cancer, anæmia or serious blood disease—any one of these contracted by the mother would demand cessation of breast-feeding.

It is a question whether or not epilepsy, convulsions or some other nervous or mental disturbances should be sufficient reason for stopping the mother's milk. This must be determined on the merits of the individual case.

Should the mother become pregnant during the suckling period, it is wise to wean the baby, because this nourishment is needed for another little life.

After all, the supreme test is the child itself. The physical prosperity of the infant is the important thing. If he ceases growing, suffers continuously from diarrhoea and vomiting, and begins to lose weight, something is wrong. These symptoms do not call for instant change in the feeding, but they demand investigation. Unless regulation of the hours of feeding and the quantity of milk given brings about restoration to health, it is essential to consider artificial feeding, either as a substitute for the breast or to supplement it.

A last and natural reason for stopping breast-feeding is the advanced age of the infant. Ordinarily, weaning should take place not later than the twelfth month, and usually it is earlier than this. The welfare of the baby is of first importance. The health of the mother cannot be disregarded. Common sense must govern, and each case must be studied to find just what is best for both.

EXPOSITION OF HEALTH IS INAUGURATED

Great, Varied Array of Exhibits Greets Crowds As Speakers Tell Purpose of Show; Street Parade Held

Constituting a red letter day in the history of modern science as well as in that of the city of Oakland, the First International Health and Safety Exposition was formally opened last night at the city Auditorium, the event being witnessed by thousands of Oakland residents and out-of-town visitors. The doors to the health show were thrown open at 7:30 p. m. and within a few minutes the great space of the Auditorium swarmed with visitors. The foreign governments exhibits, the Key Route models of the entire suburban and ferry system, the life-saving apparatus of the United States coast guard service, the exhibit of the United States navy, including a diving apparatus, and many other state and government exhibits were explained to the visitors by those in charge. Mingled with the strictly medical and safety exhibits are many exhibits by commercial concerns and business houses, as well as exhibits of local products and manufactures.

PARADE HELD.
 Celebrating the fact that this city has had the foresight and the energy to organize the first international exposition of this kind on the present scale, a great parade was held this afternoon and was reviewed in front of the city hall by Major-General Morton, commander of the Ninth Corps Area of the United States Army. The parade started from Third and Broadway and disbanded at the auditorium. Units and bands of the United States Navy, of the Coast Artillery, National Guard, R. O. T. C., Boy Scouts, city firemen and police, the Key Route band, many automobiles and floats furnished by the Y. M. C. A., the Red Cross, the Y. W. C. A., the Baby Hospital and the West Oakland Home participated in the parade, which was in charge of Col. Fred W. Peterson, grand marshal, and his aid, Captain H. W. Knifer.

PURPOSE TOLD.
 Dr. Herbert T. Samuels, president of the board of directors of the exposition, called to order the opening meeting last night at the Auditorium theater. Dr. Samuels briefly reviewed the organization preliminaries of the exposition, and its purpose, and introduced Mayor John L. Davis, who said in part: "This great Exposition is the culmination of many months of effort on the part of such men as Dr. Samuels and his fellow workers. It is eminently fitting that this first International Health and Safety show should be held in the city of Oakland, this city which always devoted itself to the furtherance of public health ideas, and its people are a healthy people, living in a healthy climate."

Speaking in behalf of the Republic of Mexico and for the foreign exhibitors in general, Dr. Francisco Navarro, Director of Military hospitals for Mexico, said: "The world realizes and fully recognizes the great part which America has always taken and is still taking in public health work. I have traveled throughout the United States and have been in close touch with your great hospitals, and your great research institutions. I wish to congratulate the United States, the State of California, and the city of Oakland on having organized this great Exposition, this striking demonstration of culture and civilization."

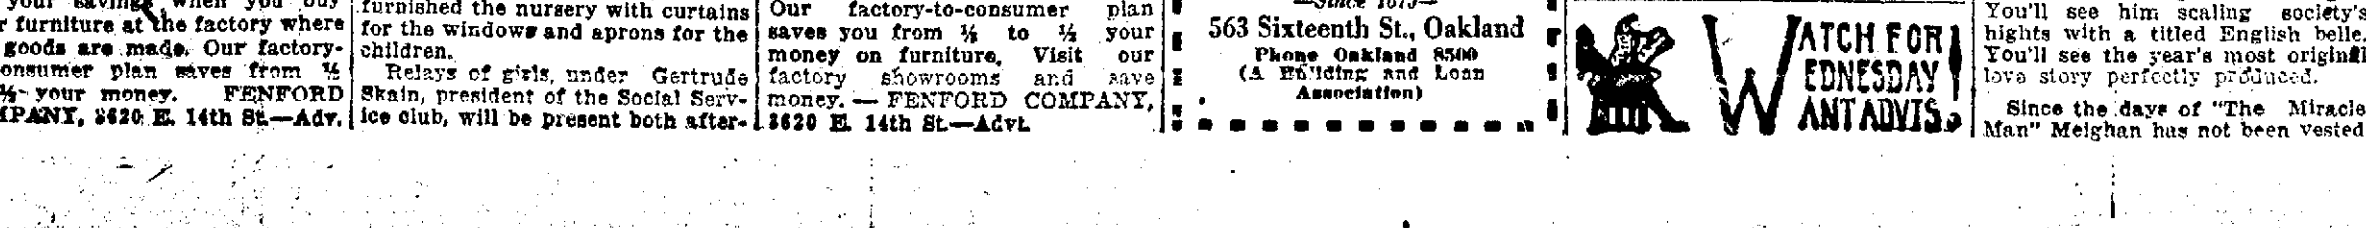

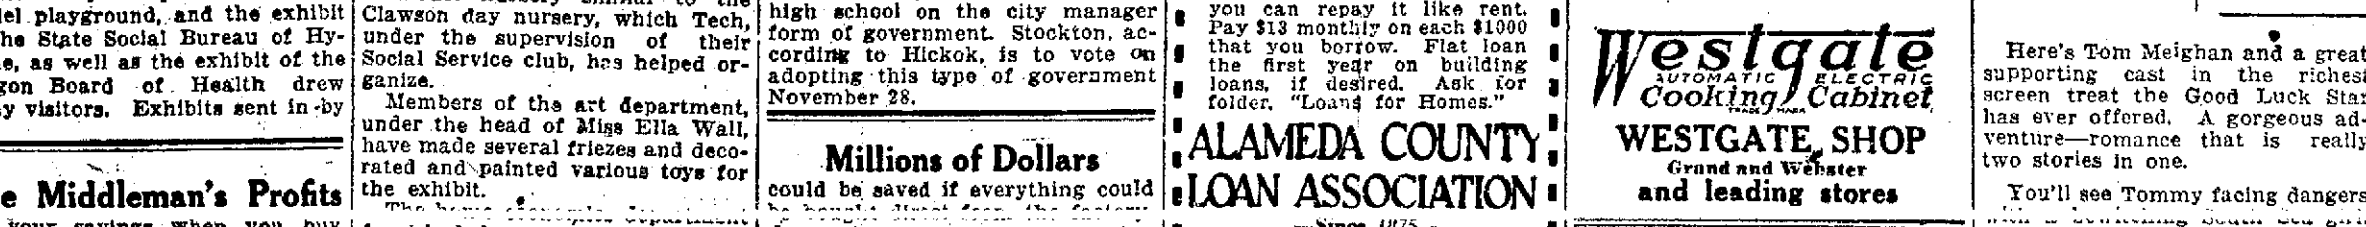

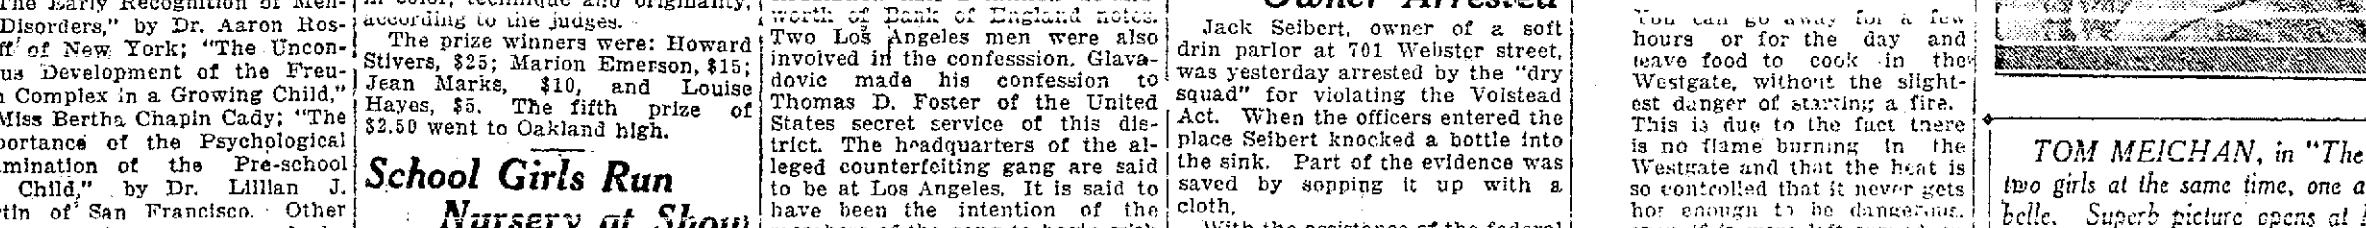

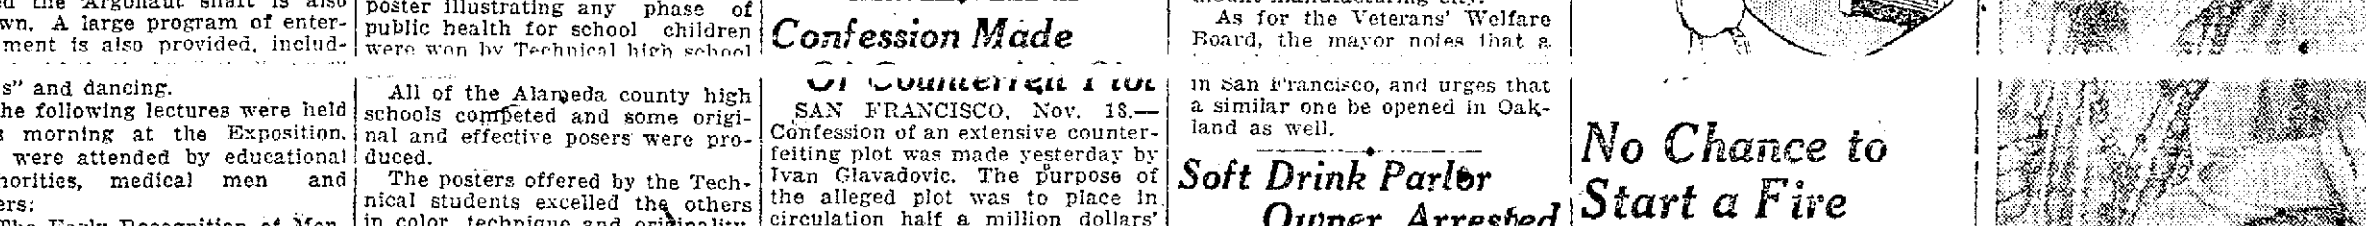

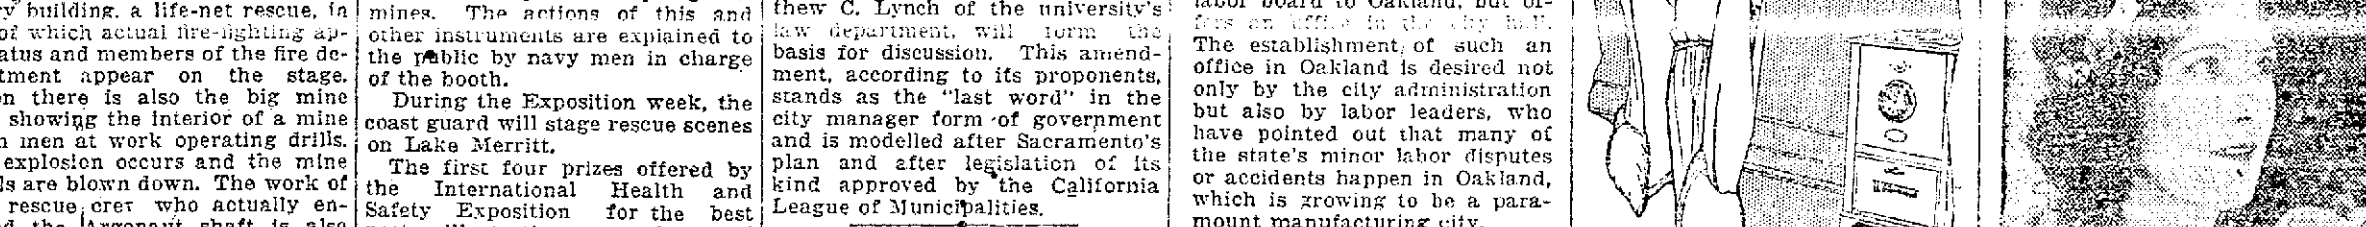

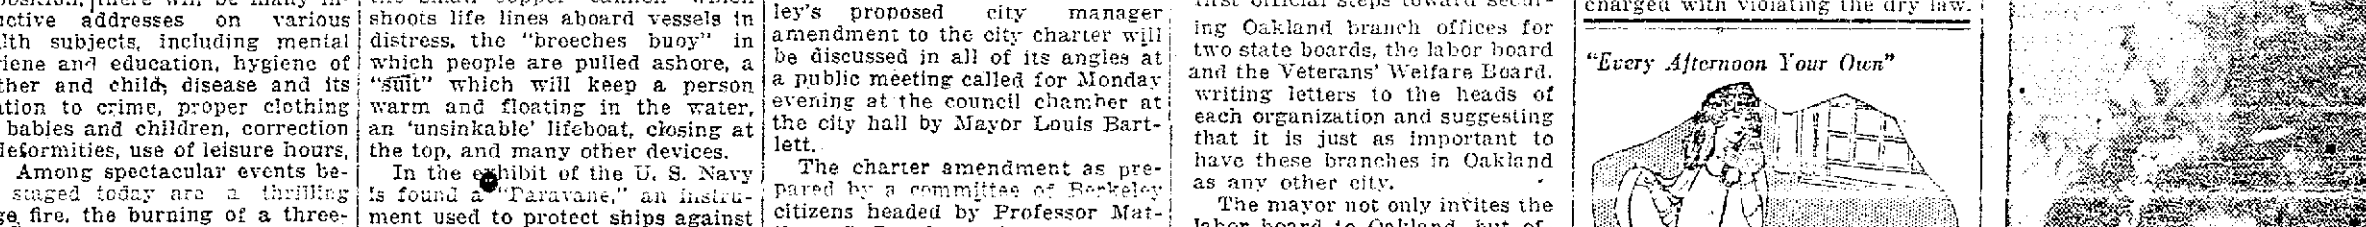

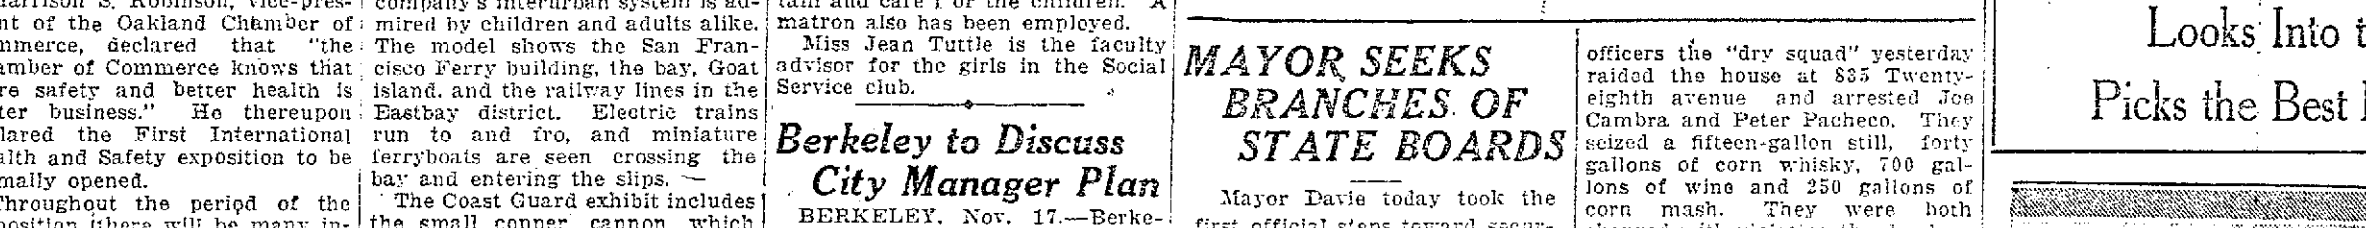

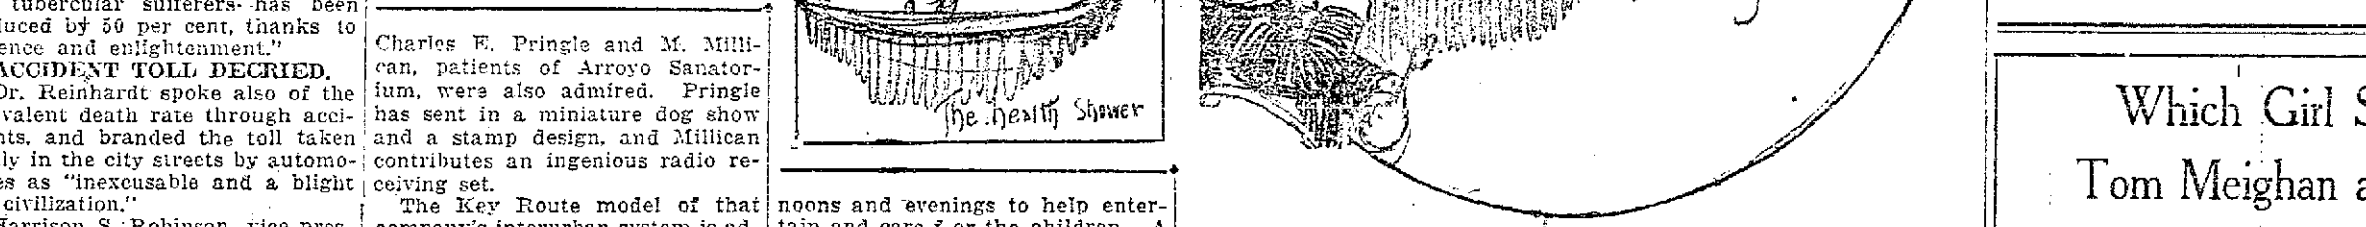

Dr. Daniel J. Crosby, former city health officer, congratulated Dr. Herbert T. Samuels who, he declared, had inspired the Exposition. The speaker emphasized the educational value of the Exposition for both children and adults. Professor H. R. Hatfield, Dean of the University of California faculty, expressed the hope that the Exposition would develop into a permanent institution.

EDUCATION THROUGH WORK.
 Dr. Aurelia Henry Reinhardt, president of Mills College, spoke of the great work accomplished by the pioneers in medicine who have insured to human beings longer, safer and happier lives. Dr. Reinhardt said in part:

"We are our brother's keeper. Science has discovered that disease is not an act of God, but that it is nearly always born of ignorance. Here is a striking example of what science can do. In 1910, 125 babies died out of every thousand in the United States. Last year this average was reduced to 10 babies in

MAYOR SEEKS BRANCHES OF STATE BOARDS

Mayor Davis today took the first official steps toward securing Oakland branch offices for two state boards, the labor board and the Veterans' Welfare Board, writing letters to the heads of each organization and suggesting that it is just as important to have these branches in Oakland as any other city.
 The mayor not only invites the labor board to Oakland, but offers an office in the city hall. The establishment of such an office in Oakland is desired not only by the city administration but also by labor leaders, who have pointed out that many of the state's minor labor disputes or accidents happen in Oakland, which is growing to be a paramount manufacturing city.
 As for the Veterans' Welfare Board, the mayor notes that a

WHERE "MOUNT TOM" NOTCHES THE SKYLINE—This photograph, showing a portion of San Francisco bay and giving a view of Mt. Tamalpais in the distance, was taken from Cragmont Rock. It was submitted in the TRIBUNE's recent contest by Herbert Wynblad, 1643 Walnut street, Berkeley.

WALLY PLIES THE PLIERS—No, this is not a member of the dental corps, nor a beauty expert showing how to redden the lips without the aid of a lipstick. It's Wallace Reid in the new Paramount comedy, "Clarence." In this role Wally, the soldier who was wounded in action by a mule, fixes everything from automobiles to love affairs. He says the pliers are swell for plucking eyebrows. Try it, girls.

Now she is turning it into coin of the realm by posing in front of the moving picture camera at Douglas, capital of Cinema Land, in "The Impossible Mrs. Bellew," her new Paramount picture.

Here's one case where toothpicks are used during instead of after meals. The food for the feathered babies is given them on a toothpick. This photo was entered in the recent TRIBUNE contest by Mrs. A. H. Hasseler.

My Marriage Problems

Older Garrison's New Phase of Revelations of a Wife

THE HELP MADGE FOUND AT LAST.

I put a coin in the bellboy's hand when he had unlocked my door and deposited my bag upon the floor. He ducked his head with an embarrassed "Thank you, ma'am," for he evidently had not yet recovered from the fact that I caught him exchanging winks with the elevator boy, patently about my appearance. I think he had feared that I meant to report his indiscretion, but was so surprised at receiving a tip that he did not know what to say.

His actions or reactions, however, had no part in my thoughts. My only wish was to get rid of him with the first feeling of security that had been mine since the appearance on the train of the mysterious elderly foreigner who claimed to be a friend of my father. Not that I feared anything sinister from this man, but his impressive attentions, his anxious endeavor to find out my father's secret address, and his patent determination not to lose sight of me had both embarrassed and alarmed me so I had a feeling of self-protection, at having locked the door in safety. Then I ran to the dressing mirror to see what had occasioned the curious looks of the taxi driver, the hotel clerk, the bellboy and the elevator man.

It did not take me long to find out. A caricature of my usual face had been drawn on the mirror.

In falling, my hat had been bent out of shape, my hair had been loosened, and I had apparently used my cheek as the base for the take up some of the grime of the station floor. But, standing out from everything else, was the swollen area on my forehead, extending over the eye and down on my cheek.

MIDGE CALLS A DOCTOR.

Fortunately the skin had not been broken except in one small instance, but the matriarch in stanching that with a hastily-scratched towel had smeared some of the blood over the rest, and such had been my haste in getting away from the waiting-room that I had not given her the opportunity to do more than dab at my face with a dampened cloth.

My first impulse was to close my eyes and my mouth and lie down, but the path of the blow from the swinging door in the station, disorientation was beginning. I had seen similar bruises before, and my heart sank as I pictured the assortment of colors which soon would be in evidence.

No wonder curious glances had followed me. No wonder the room clerk had hesitated before assigning me a room. No wonder the bellboy and the elevator man had exchanged winks behind my back. I thanked my particular little joss that the rest of my appearance was eminently conventional, and that the clerk had decided that I was either, and the victim of a respectable accident instead of a drunken brawl.

I felt as if a woman looked into me. I was that woman. My first impulse had been to call a chambermaid to help me, but the care of the swelling which was beginning to pain me frightfully. But the appearance of the face which seemed to look at me from the mirror promptly banished that intention. I must have professional care, submit my injuries first to eyes experienced enough to detect the truth, before subjecting myself to the same sort of speculation which evidently had occupied the minds of the other hotel employees.

I groped my way to the wall telephone, for I was well-nigh blinded from dizziness and weakness as well as the injury to the eye, and took the receiver from the hook.

"YOU'VE HAD A FALL."

"Will you please send the house physician to room 45—Mrs. Black?" I requested, remembering, with an effort that I had registered under that name, because of the wild idea I had entertained that the supposedly elderly foreigner might try to find out my destination. I had thought first of "Gray," no doubt name, and had discarded it for that reason, but my whirling brain had been able to go no further than another color.

I drew a big chair near the door and sank down in it to wait for the physician. It was only a few minutes before I heard a man knock on the door, and impulsively demanded:

"Who is it?"

An equally firm voice responded: "Dr. McDermott."

I rose, unlocked the door and opened it to be confronted by an elderly little man, dapper, round, several inches shorter than I, with a golden pince-nez surmounting an aquiline nose, beneath which was a grizzled mustache and goatee of the fashion among physicians a generation ago.

His very appearance was reassuring to shattered nerves. I felt as a child might when the family doctor had arrived, the doctor whom every member of the family loved.

"Oh, doctor!" I said unsteadily, and he put out a plump white hand grasped my shoulder, and held it firmly.

"Well, well!" he said kindly. "You've had quite a fall. Suppose you come over here and lie down and tell me about it."

I obeyed him, and he fixed my pillows as tenderly and deftly as a nurse.

DEAD FINGER.

Tootles' sky blue eyes reluctantly turned from a human contortion of the pugilist pie that settled innocently on Speed's face.

"You were perfectly right," he said. "I never heard. I know the identity of Quist's slayer. I know his mother committed the crime." Napoleon Knott took a long drink on the glass of milk, wiped his lips with a napkin and proceeded to cut up the steak in small squares with mathematical exactitude.

"Goodness!" he continued. "I doubt the advisability of revealing this information at the present time."

"Perhaps you are not aware that Miss Quist has been placed in jail charged with this crime," snapped Speed, his wrath increasing. "She is suffering all the humiliation, the suffering of being locked in a jail cell, browbeaten and bullied by the police and disgraced before the public by this false charge of murder."

"Can you imagine anything more terrible that could happen to a young girl? And yet you doubt the advisability of revealing information?"

"I am not," replied Speed, "under the highest moral obligation to do everything to free this innocent young woman."

"That sounds very nice," said Tootles, calmly, "but it doesn't require me to object."

"I'm authorized to pay a fee of $5000 to the person who proves Miss Quist innocent," asserted Speed.

"Goodness again!" replied Knott, smiling cherubically. "I don't want money."

"Then what do you want?"

"Time. Time to work out my theories. Ample time to piece the threads together and weave a net that will trap Invisible Fingers, the mysterious assassin that killed Quist and his butler."

A tiny red flash of a signal from his position on the wall.

It had a strange effect on Tootles. The fat detective plucked a revolver from somewhere on his person and moved silently toward the door. Speed followed him.

"Sh, Sh," warned Knott, forefinger to his lips.

He listened at the door intently, then suddenly pulled it open and sprang through with leveled gun. Speed saw a form vanishing into another room.

The fat man followed the specter with astonishing swiftness and threw his bulk against the door, and when the door opened he took refuge. The unlocked door opened. Speed was close at his heels. A cool draft told him that a window was open. It was black in there. They could see nothing.

Speed found a switch and flooded the dark room with electric light. Poking his revolver into closets and under the bed, Tootles made a thorough search of the place.

Speed looked at the queer photographs Tootles held, curiously.

in despondency. Fear glowed from his eyes. But he shrugged his shoulders, the next minute and turned abruptly toward a large desk, which had been decorated from view by long purple drapes.

A miniature laboratory, including retorts, magnifying glasses, an apparatus for developing, printing and enlarging photographs and other tools occupied a portion of this place of furniture.

Developed negatives, enlarged photos of finger prints, a sort of stereoscopic machine set up, and a small clock, which he called "a queer looking picture upon a white canvas screen and other instruments more or less bizarre completed the layout.

"What do you mean, he nearly yelled. "I've spent the whole of my life in this place, and I've been at the whole of the feeding of the pigs, the flashing of the warning light, the pursuit of the assassin of the assassin, and the whole of the thing upon the fat detective. 'Who nearly got you?'"

"Invisible Fingers," retorted Knott, shortly.

The very man laughed.

"You're strong for this Invisible Fingers stuff," he commented, amused. "That's pretty far fetched, Mr. Knott. Come down to earth."

The fat man, who apparently had forgotten his visitor, now turned to Speed with a triumphant smile.

"I want to show you something," he said, unlocking a small drawer in the desk and pulling out a photograph with a black dot.

Knott placed the picture on the table carefully and removed the Two Conundrums and a Tragedy.

I do not know why it is that nearly all the stories having to do with frugality should be aimed at the Scotch. It has always seemed to me that the Scotch were not a stingy race, but rather that they merely had elevated caniness in business dealings to the nth degree. Your average Scotchman does not particularly wish to hoard his money, he merely desires that when he spends it, he shall obtain a proper return. But if one may judge by the Scottish world at large holds to a different view.

You know of course the ancient conundrum which was printed years ago in London Punch. As I recall it, this conundrum ran as follows:

"How, at the conclusion of a railroad journey, can you definitely fix the nationality of an English passenger, an Irish passenger, and a Scotch passenger?"

The answer was:

"The Englishman hurries to the lunch-stand, the Irishman hastens to the bar; the Scotchman goes back through the train to see if anybody left anything."

Then, here just the other day, a friend fixed this one at me:

"Why," he asked, "Have the Scotch a sense of humor?"

"All right," I said, "I'll bite; tell me, Mr. Bones, why have the Scotch a sense of humor?"

"Because," he said, "it's a gift."

A still later addition to the crop has just reached me. It is stated that an Englishman, standing treat to a Scotchman at a pub recommended that his guest try some very fine brandy which the establishment had in stock at three shillings a drink. With glistering eyes the Scotchman agreed. He waited until the bar-maid had poured out the brandy and then with a sudden leap he pounced upon the glass, seizing it in both hands as in a vise.

"Why do you do that, old dear?" asked the astonished host.

"Because," said the Scotchman, "when I was a verra young man, back in Edinburgh in the year 1862, I saw one of them spilled."

TODAY'S SHORT STORY, BY Ad Schuster

NO captain of industry ever approached the reorganization of his business more seriously than the captain of the college football team. The college football player the tint of the future depends on gridiron performance. Con Willis of Case University, carrying a tremendous weight of responsibility, chafed and waited for the whistle to blow.

As he walked on to the field with the team the stands rose to greet him, the band played, and the war song of the old college rang out. Blocks of posters surged up for seats, the choppers whirled across the field. Con looked at the press stand, shaded out a girl with a golden streamer on blue coat and smiled. "Best seat in the field," he thought. "Ed was sore when she turned him down for me."

The big game was one to write college tradition. Through the first half the teams fought back and forth wearing and enduring to no advantage. If the Yates eleven gained a little more through the line, Case made it up in punting. Both relied on straight football, holding the open plays and their surprises for last. Con played beside Ed, rival for Gladys, the girl in the press stand, and as game and tackle they were said to be started for the All-American.

"It will come now," Con said in Ed's ear as they crouched into position in the last quarter. Gladys where we show all the fancy stuff." A smile showed on Ed's streaked face. "It may be up to you. Good luck!"

There came the signal for the tackle-back play that was designed to send Con around the end on a false forward pass. It was a particular pet of the coach's and had been rehearsed in secret for this game. As the numbers came shrill from the quarterback the center snapped the ball for supreme effort. Con dropped back, out of position, the right end sped out as if in tendril to bolt down the field with the snap of the ball, and the tackle back, but his hands for the pass. The ball thrashed into the hands and stomach of the quarter and was shot to Con. The Yates line plunged easily through the right side, but was turned on the left, and the fleet tackle running around the end who had been neatly pocketed, sped for the goal. There was no one who could stand him. With the cheers of the stands in his ears, Con saw that goal posts moving toward him. Ed, between them he threw himself with the ball. It was victory.

The cheers died and in their place came a groan, then wild yells from the other side. In all of the noise no one had heard the whistle of the referee, who

Wives FOLKS AND about THINGS

"Study men." That's what Miss Black Hill, chairman of the executive committee of the National Woman's Party, says. "Study men." Miss Hill declares that 25 per cent of the college girls marry within two years after graduation, but they are for the most part sadly lacking in the knowledge of how to make a success of marriage. So she advocates what she calls a "stud-buddy" plan.

Domestic relations, and she wants that course made a required part of a college education.

Well, well—here's a new idea! "Study men"—good gracious, Miss Hill, have ever the girls going to study men? Out of a text book? Who's going to write the book—and where, oh where, are you going to find a teacher who will know exactly how to conduct such a class?

If she has studied men to advantage—how will she come to be a teacher in a college, or in a co-educational college, for that matter.

"Study men"—what men—how study them?

Are they all alike—these men, Miss Hill, and so hard to understand? There's little Jimmie Jones, for instance. He likes dapples—pretty girls with bobbed hair and jingling straps to their overalls. He hates clever girls or "diss," as he calls them. He wants a girl to talk with roguish eyes, and a way with them.

WHAT MEN—WHERE?

Now, how are you going to please Jimmie, no matter how hard you study him—if you happen to be tall and bony, and never even a dimple, much less possessed one?

There's Billy Smith—he likes brains—ability, brilliancy. He's bored to death with the "Oh, you're so big and strong—how wonderful you are, little dapper."

He wants to talk about race preservation and the everlasting whiteness of the what, and he wants to talk about these things to a person who can at least pretend to understand them. How can poor little Susan Sweetest ever please Billy, no matter how hard she studies?

Then there's William E. Brown—he goes in for golf and polo and ice-boat. He wants a girl who can tramp twenty miles and call it "tramping."

He wants a jolly, good-natured, matter-of-fact pal whom he can marry and take with him on a camping trip—can you learn these things out of a book, Miss Hill, and if you can't learn them out of a book, will you then learn them from "Study men"—what men—where?

Have you never, my dear Miss Hill, heard a man say how much he admired a nice, little domestic woman, who loves home and babies and then see him leave just exactly such a woman to make violent love to a young person who'd rather die than to stay out of the bright lights for two consecutive evenings?

Have you ever heard three or four men talking each other how they differ the modern dapper and how they wish somebody would bring back the old-fashioned girl they read about in books? And then when somebody brings the old-fashioned girl to town, from some place in the country, and she's pretty and sweet, too, and as good as gold—these same men will let her sit against the wall the whole evening—and never even look once in her direction while they flutter the words around and can't say a feather-headed little dapper chooses to light.

"Study men"—what methods are worthy creatures?

Is the "study" to be the model? Fish-tuck—Miss Hill, any man of experience will tell you that the "study" is all right on the stage, or for an evening's amusement, but when it comes to marriage—out upon her!

Then the home-and-mother type—look around you, Miss Hill, and behold her stinging at home and being alone, with her children.

"Study men"—who's going to do the studying, and what are they going to study?

Men don't have to study women to get women to marry them—and I never yet saw a woman who was without any genuine drawback, who couldn't marry at least half a dozen times, if she wanted to do it.

And whisper—are you sure that these girls you want to teach are all so very anxious to make a "success of marriage?"

Some of them don't seem to want marriage at all. They don't want to look upon marriage as merely a back-ground for all kinds of more or less pleasant activities. No, no, Miss Hill—it isn't the head that must be educated in this connection.

It is the heart and the character.

When men and women really want to be happy in a real home, nobody will have to do much studying, either of men or of women, and find out the secret of making a success of such an undertaking.

Mary and John, each in love with the other, each, kind, each unselfish, each generous, each a little "stud-buddy" to the other.

"You can't find it between the covers of any book on earth or learn the secret at any college lecture."

When Fighting Was in Fashion

KNIGHTS of Middle Ages times never had to get tired of fighting. If there was no quarrel with their neighbors, they were likely to sail out of their castles and start one.

In their fights, the knights would drive against one another with leveled lances, if both riders were on horseback at all times. The best of them were later made peace days, as well as holy seasons such as Lent. Finally there were only 50 days in each year when knights were permitted to fight one another.

Of course the knights did not always keep the peace days. They were too busy to let a day pass without a fight to show over the leveled lances.

knocked out of their seats, they would fight with swords or daggers. When one was struck down, wounded, the other would decide whether or not to put him to death. The priests of the Christian church did not like all this fighting. They tried to make it less. Knights were forbidden to strike priests or women, peasants or traders. If they did so, they were doomed to be cut off from the church. The knights thought that was a terrible thing.

Another rule of the church was that there must be no fighting on Sundays. Other days of the week

PASTURES NOW IN GOOD SHAPE BECAUSE OF RAIN

Danger to Rice Crop From Storm Passes; Beans Slightly Hurt.

Crop and pasture conditions for the first half of the month are reported today by E. E. Kaufman, statistician of the state department of agriculture as very promising. In fact, Kaufman reports that the rice crop is in the best of condition. Pasture conditions in northern California are still improving due to the abundant rainfall of last week which will cause a continued growth of the grass resulting in a better feed for the winter. The precipitation of last week was a great benefit to stockmen in the southern half of the state, as it was the first rain of the season. Continued warm weather will result in a rapid growth of green feed. The stock is in good condition, reports generally indicating an improvement over the condition of two weeks ago. This is especially true of northern California. Comparing present prices of sheep, cows and calves with those for the same period last year, a slight improvement is noted. However, with sheep the price situation is much better. Weathers and ewes are now selling from $2.00 to $2.50 and lambs about $3.00 per hundred above last year's figure.

A large percentage of the rice crop was endangered by the continued rains of last week, however, since the storm is being followed by the present warm weather, no loss is anticipated. Only a few fields have been damaged by the heavy rain. Reports just received indicate that about 10 per cent of the crop is yet uncut, 35 per cent is in the shock and 55 per cent threshed or safe from rain. On the basis of the present outlook, approximately 14,000 acres of rice to be harvested this year and yielding on the average of 30 sacks, there will be produced 420,000 sacks, 45 per cent of which are still in the field.

Seasonal farm operations in Sacramento Valley are reported as "normal" and "advanced." Practically all summer fallow land has been seeded and fall plowing is well under way. While in the San Joaquin Valley where the season is slightly later, the recent rains placed the ground in excellent condition. Seeding is progressing as rapidly as possible. The early season has been a success. The first crops of the season have already been moved from Delta, Fresno and Tulare counties. Unharvested beans were damaged to some extent by the recent storm.

Flocks of potatoes have reached the bottom, according to a statement at Washington, D. C., by the department of agriculture, averaging only 20 to 25 cents a bushel to growers in the West and ranging from 10 to 20 cents in the East. In Eastern shipping points, some Western farmers are giving potatoes away to neighbors, and others are throwing them away.

Secretary Says Conference
Would Prevent Labor Conflicts.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 18.—James J. Davis, secretary of labor, in an address at the Labor Temple here last night, opposed strikes on the theory they could easily be averted by mutual understanding between labor and capital, defended child labor laws and advocated a strict immigration law.

"Strikes might easily be averted if the committees representing both labor and capital would meet around council tables sixty days before a strike instead of waiting sixty days after," he said.

"There is no one who will question the right of labor to organize. It has the same right as capital to organize."

"I am against the living wage and in favor of the saving wage. There should be enough in the envelope each week so that the American family may live as human beings. There should be enough so the children may be educated. There should be enough so the things in life worth living for will not be crowded out by the things that are not worth living for."

He said the department of labor had taken a firm stand on the "3 per cent" law regulating the immigration of laborers.

"We have 1,000,000 men out of work right now in the United States," he said. "Why should we allow foreigners to come to add to the burden?"

Half City Block
Is Purchased on San Pablo Ave.

A real estate deal involving thousands of dollars has been consummated whereby the Dolan Brothers Wrecking company has purchased half a square block on San Pablo avenue between Twenty-ninth and Thirtieth streets.

The transfer of the property from Mrs. Grace Richards and Mrs. Mary Wetmore to Eugene Dolan was recorded today by William A. White of the county clerk's office.

The firm of White and Pollard, who said that the consideration was $10,000, in purchasing the two parcels of land, having a frontage of 105 and 155 feet respectively, the Dolans will assume proprietorship of the site on which their wrecking plant has been established for some time, according to White, and make further expansion of the firm.

"The deal is one of the most important transactions along San Pablo avenue in some time," said White, "and marks but another step in the progress being made by Oakland. It is another example of the steady growth of the city along industrial lines."

James Walsh, attorney, represented the Dolans in the transaction.

AMPLIFICATION PLUS REGENERATION.
(All Rights Reserved by United Feature Syndicate. Reproduction Prohibited.)

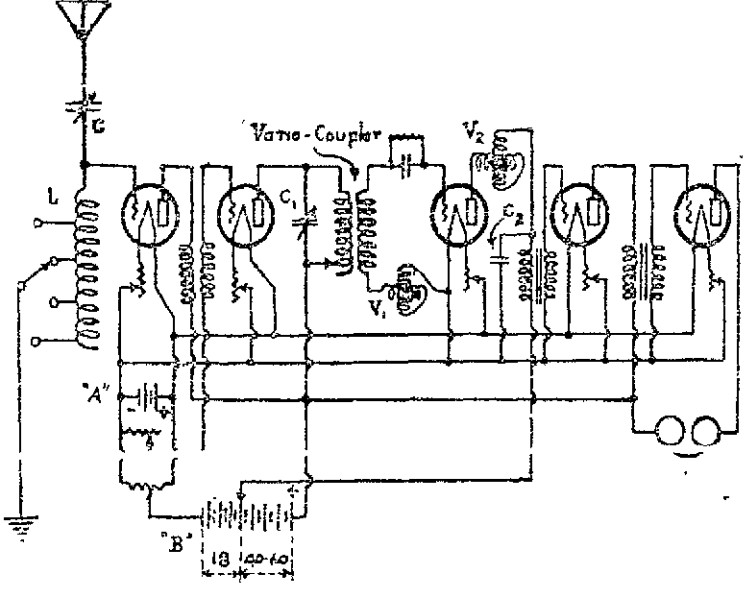

If a regenerative circuit, consisting of a tuned circuit, plate grid variometers and associated apparatus, is combined with radio and audio-frequency amplification an extremely sensitive method is obtained for the reception of short wave signals radiated from distant transmitting stations.

There are two types of regenerative circuits in general use which operate very efficiently for the reception of short waves such as the broadcast signals with wave lengths of approximately 360 or 490 meters. These two types of circuits are, namely, the "tickle circuit" and the "tune plate circuit." Either of these circuits produce magnification of signal by transferring a portion of the plate circuit energy to the grid circuit and superimposing this energy upon the original radio wave. As this action is cumulative, up to a certain point a considerably reinforced oscillation is secured.

The "tickle circuit" obtains increased strength of signal by inserting a "tickle coil" in the plate circuit, coupling this coil to the secondary coil and transferring the amplified oscillations of the plate circuit, by induction, to the grid circuit. The "tune plate circuit" uses an adjustable inductance, such as a variometer, to replace the "tickle coil" and this inductance need not be coupled to the secondary coil as coupling between the plate and grid circuits is obtained by utilizing the capacity existing between the grid and plate of the vacuum tube itself.

The accompanying diagram illustrates an arrangement whereby two stages of radio-frequency amplification and two stages of audio-frequency amplification are combined with a short wave regenerative circuit, of the "tune plate" type. By proper adjustment of these circuits a weak signal, intercepted by the antenna, is so strengthened as to efficiently operate a loud speaker, thus reproducing without distortion and with intensified energy the sounds of music or speech which originated at the transmitting station.

The tuning coil (L₁) and the series condenser (C₁) are adjusted to the frequency of the incoming wave, which is then amplified by two stages of radio-frequency amplification. The transformer in the plate circuit of the second tube consists of a standard variometer, which is tuned by the variable condenser (C₂) having a capacity of 0.001 microfarad. The radio wave is further amplified and detected in the regenerative system containing the grid variometer (V₁), the plate variometer (V₂), the grid condenser and leak and the second audio-frequency amplifier. The by-pass condenser (C₃) provides an easy path for the oscillations of high frequency which otherwise would be choked back by the reactance of the primary coil of the transformer in the first stage of audio-frequency amplification. After being detected the signal is amplified by two stages of audio-frequency amplification and reproduction of the original sounds of

If the energy contained in the waves radiated from a distant transmitting station is too feeble to properly operate the detector it is necessary to build up the weak signal by inserting one or more stages of radio-frequency amplification between the detector and the antenna and thus amplify the original radio wave at the same frequency with which it is transmitted through the other. The strength of signal may thus be increased to a point where proper detection is secured and the signal converted from a "radio" or inaudible frequency to an "audio" or audible frequency. If it is desired to further

PIANO RECITAL
BY YOUNG ARTIST
OFFERED BY KLX

Doris Osborne, Pupil of Douillet, To Play
Half-Hour.

A piano recital will be offered to the radio audience tonight between 7 and 7:30 o'clock from KLX. The TRIBUNE's radio broadcasting station.

The program will be given by Miss Doris Osborne, pupil of American pianist and artist, Pierre Douillet, of San Francisco, famous artist and composer.

Miss Osborne is a Californian by birth, and from an early age has made music her life work, until New York and Chicago critics have acclaimed her "one of the foremost of the generation's young pianists."

She recently returned to California from the east where she appeared before some of the leading clubs and at various recitals.

Under the direction of Pierre Douillet, one of the best known teachers and composers of music in the west, Miss Osborne has fitted herself for a promising career.

The piano numbers which will be played by Miss Osborne on tonight's half-hour program from KLX will be found under the "KLX" schedule on this page.

of the amplifier tubes. It is advisable to have a separate thermostat for control of the various tube filaments, as a difference in temperature would result in fluctuations of unequal length, if the stages of audio-frequency were each controlled by a single rheostat.

It is apparent, therefore, that the utilization of radio-frequency and audio-frequency amplification for the purpose of conserving the detector tube in responding to feeble impulses. Audio-frequency amplification compensates for the lack of sensitivity of the human ear by intensifying the audibility of the signal. By thus combining radio-frequency amplification and audio-frequency amplification, greatly increased range and exceptional audibility are efficiently obtained.

MISS DORIS OSBORNE, pianist and artist-pupil of Pierre Douillet, who will give tonight's half-hour radio program from the TRIBUNE's broadcasting station, 1277

Oakland, Cal., Feb. 2, 1932.
My nephew had meningitis and was isolated in a hospital over the city. I was told he was so sick that he may die. I went to the Fong Wan Herb Co. and told them his condition. He took their herb tea for a week, then he began to feel better. Continued for two more weeks and now he is completely well.

PEACE OF INDIA
DAPEANT DANCE
VITAL MESSAGE

Story of Asiatic People to Be Told Graphically At Y. W. C. A.

What it means to India to have Christian nations try to break down or destroy her ancient traditions in the effort to spread their beliefs among her people, together with a suggested "better way" of accomplishing this purpose, are to be depicted in pictorial form by more than forty women and girls at the Young Women's Christian Association building on Webster street tomorrow afternoon.

The pageant, which is entitled "The Peace of India," will show the mental and spiritual nature of the people of the Indian Empire, their strength and their weakness, and the relationship between them and other nations such as America.

Emphasis will be placed on the natural tendencies of these people, as revealed in their literature, religion and art, and upon the necessity, on part of more enlightened nations, of "tenderly and patiently directing these tendencies, instead of trying to put them aside."

Costumes and scenery have been provided which will aid in carrying out both the symbolism of the piece and the distinctive atmosphere of India, with its heritage of culture, beauty and religious consciousness.

The pageant also will deal with some of the handicaps which keep India from becoming one of the leading nations of the world.

Through the allegory is shown America's friendship for India, and the ways in which this friendship and sympathetic interest may be used in the solution of many difficulties.

Prominent parts will be taken by Miss Ruth Hall Crandall, well-known Eastbay soloist; Mrs. Clarence S. Caldwell, 4221 Woodruff street, who will represent "America," and Mrs. H. F. Thompson, 2419 Tenth avenue, the author of the pageant, who will have the role of "India."

Large Freighter
Visits Oakland
With Rio Cargo

Prominent Men Go Aboard
Lewis Luckenbach to See Equipment.

The freighter Lewis Luckenbach, America's largest cargo carrier, was inspected by a party of Oakland business men, manufacturers and Chamber of Commerce members yesterday afternoon. The big steamer, the largest vessel ever to pay Oakland a visit, is tied up at the Howard terminal, discharging a large shipment of Christmas goods. She is to take on an outgoing cargo of 30,000 cases of canned fruit, a large amount of radio equipment and automobile parts, as well as much miscellaneous material.

The visitors to the big freighter were received by Captain E. H. Read, skipper of the ship, and G. A. Huested and W. J. Cuspo, local representatives of the Luckenbach Steamship company in Oakland. They were shown over the vessel and given a demonstration of the working of the many patented contrivances, such as position finders, gyro compasses, patented automatic fog signals, underwater detectors, and signal systems.

The Lewis Luckenbach proved conclusively that vessels of any size that have visited San Francisco bay can also make a call at Oakland. The big freighter had a draft of 35 feet and a dead weight of 14,177 tons. Despite this, there was no trouble experienced by Captain Read in bringing his ship up the estuary and maneuvering her into position alongside the wharf.

Those who visited the ship yesterday were C. E. Capwell, of Capwell's S. Smith, of the Maxwell Hardware company; Chas. Schlegel, of the Hall Scott Motor company; E. C. Clark, of the same concern; R. K. Cutler and H. Harris, of the Magnavox company; W. T. Sims and Blanks Everett, of the Chamber of Commerce; and a large number of casual visitors who came aboard at various times during the day to inspect the big vessel.
